Court Crowds

This morning marked the July term of criminal court here, and the large crowds that attend court were on hand.

The criminal term of court attracts large erowds, and about the same group year after year.

The civil terms of court are usually too. technical, and lack the glamour, and the usual cases which draw the huge crowds that turn out for criminal terms.

Cases that have a little "dirt" mixed into them are the largest drawing cases on the docket

It is just a matter of record, and we presume such will always be the case.

The World Is Interested In Haywood Farming

Dnring the past few weeks The Mountaineer has received a large number of letters and copies of editorials about the 62-page Farm Edition which was published in May.

This week, another trend has developed. From lowa came a request from the Washington Evening Journal for 12 pictures which were used in the special edition. The Journal wants to use the pictures about burley, apples, and beef cattle. in an effort to show their readers what type farming is carried on in this county.

From down in Columbus County in this state, came a request for dairy pictures to be used by the Whiteville News-Reporter.

Copies of the edition are being studied by

Modernizing Traffic Laws

Our highway laws have changed from time to time to keep pace with the times. Not so long ago, no one would have been so disrespectful as to have led a funeral procession at more than five miles an hour. Times and conditions have brought about a change in this, and now 25 to 30 miles an hour is considered a practical speed and one of dignity

Funeral processions traveling main highways can easily create a traffic condition that sometimes becomes dangerous, and for that reason, the laws regulating funeral processions have been changed.

There is no law now which prevents a motorist from passing an entire procession when he keeps within the rules of safety in so doing. Neither is there any longer a law which requires a motorist approaching a funeral procession to stop. There was a time when this was necessary.

The changes in the law have been in keeping with the needs of the day, and it appears that each step has been a practical one.

A Valuable Service

It is a source of gratification to learn that the expert inspectors here last week found but few places in Haywood that they considered as dangerous.

We feel that the record of the past few years bears out their findings, in that Hav-10, wood has had but few serious fires.

There is one point which an inspector made which is perhaps the foundation of the entire pa fire prevention program, and that is "cleanli- hi ness.

Fires seldom start in a clean place.

The inspection in the four Haywood towns and the recommendations of the men doing the work will mean a lot for the present and lif the years to come. The suggestions made by the inspectors were practical and timely, and  $\mid_{\rm fo}$ we have a feeling that every property owner and business firm will adhere to the suggestions.

Blue Ridge Parkway Funds

The announcement recently that the National Park Service would seek a Congressional appropriation of $13,500,000 to be used for completion of the Blue Ridge Parkway is received here with much interest and approval.

While only a small part of the parkway is in Burke County it is definitely a part of those things the people of this county and the no. I don't have time to think this entire area of the State point to with of the heat. pride. It is also one of the showplaces of the nation as well as being an important link in our country's highway system in peace and war.

Several hundred copies were bought by TVA for use in the seven states in which the Tennessee Valley Authority operates.

A number of publications have asked for special articles about the program, and one of the leading editors of the South in a personal letter to the editor of this newspaper this week, said he planned to make a personal inspection trip here before long.

We point to all this not as a matter of bragging about the edition, but in an effort to show the interest the outside world has in the farm program which is underway here in Haywood County.

At this camp, a complete study of music is had, and the students work hard day in and day out, under the leadership of outstanding musicians.

The fact that 14 from here are attending is encouraging in many ways.

A collection of books has been loaned to them and the Bookmobile will make stops at the Boat house. We are glad for our many friends at the Lake and we congratulate the Woman's Club on sponsoring this service.

So many new stops have been added to our Bookmobile Service. Take for instance the new stop at Bradley's Store in Hazelwood, On the first trip there 16 books were checked out. With the children aut of school you should see them meeting the Bookmobile. Out at Mrs. F. O. Dryman's in Rogers' Cove 53 books were taken out. At the Frank Worlick stop up in Allens Creek section they took 29 books home. Children from all over the country are having the opportunity of reading during the summer and to join others in the Summer Reading Club. Take a look at the Haywood County Map on our Bulletin Board and see the many names of the members of our Reading Club.

Children at the Clyde Summer Reading Club checked out 62 books last Wednesday after their story hour.

Ard there limits to how for back you can remember?

Answer: If you're speaking of conscious memory, yes. What is ometimes called "childhood amnesh" blocks most of us from recalling anything that happened before we were five or six years old. But this does not mean that earlier events are really forgotten. With the weakening of fear and inhibition that takes place is psychomalysis, I have seen people temember thrills or shocks which
