OF HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

View From Black Camp Gap Is Inspiring

Standing where the photographer stood to make this picture, one can see for many miles over high mountain peaks into the Great Smokies. This is in the famous Hemlock area, and is reached by following the Soco Gap highway to a point about a mile beyond Maggie, then turning to the right.

Comments From Some Of Our Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Keating of Clearwater, Fla., who are stopping at the Smith Apartments on Haywood street, "Having enjoyable visit, fine climate, scenery throughout this area of considerable interest."

H. W. Frazier, of Suffolk, Va., who is a guest at The Georgian is quite enthusiastic. "Been all over N. C. and never had such a nice place to stay and such wonderful courtesies and food as we have found at The Georgian."

Clare Cotton is staying at Twin Brook. Miss Cotton is from Tallahassee, Fla. She writes in: "We hope to make it back to the Garden Spot of the Mountains, just south of Heaven . . . Twin Brooks Resort."

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Potter of Orlando, Fla., are guests at the Waynesville Country Club. "Excellent Chamber of Commerce, grand climate, beautiful scenery, fine Country Club, good food."

Lars Nipper of Orlando, Fla., is a guest at The Maples. "Wish I could stay here forever."

Mrs. Alice Stuart also from Orlando, Fla., and also a guest at The Maples. "Square dancing is wonderful . . . as well as everything else."

Mrs. S. J. Wagers, from St. Louis, Mo., is spending some time in Hillborn, N. C., and says, "Beautiful scenery. People should stay like mountain folk to add romantic flavor to the country. Thereby gain greater tourist appeal. Forget modern things and revert to old ways."

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Corbin, of Greenville, S. C., is a guest at Shamrock Court. "The beauty of the Smokies is simply magnificent, and these cool nights are wonderful. The people here are most courteous, too."

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Stonebraker of Orlando, Fla., who are guests at the San Queen Farms. "I came up to make up Rotary attendance on Friday. Having been a former newspaper publisher in the Chicago states area for many years, I could not resist paying the Mountaineer office a professional call. One should not think of living in near sea-level Florida, without spending as much time as possible each year in the mountains. Practicing as a business counsel on a national basis before locating in Florida, naturally opportunity was afforded to visit many sections of the country. The Great Smokies are particularly attractive. This is the fourth consecutive summer we have been coming here since our first visit up here."

Mr. Stonebraker is a business and public relations counsel, with headquarters in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Parks, Spartanburg, S. C., visiting at Campbell's Tourist Home, Soco Gap Road. "We're delighted to discover this beautiful valley."

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Redding, Sanford, Fla., staying at Campbell's Tourist Home, Soco Gap Road. "This is the coolest spot we've found on our vacation."
