

HOW TO AVOID THE PERILS OF POLIO

AP New-features
THE MENACE of polio is again acute because 45% of the United States is now in the grip of the disease. Here are some things that you can do to avoid the perils of polio.

Here Geraldine Childs poses to illustrate some of the things you can watch for himself.

DON'T GET CHILLED. Sitting in front of a fan when overheated is bad. Remove wet garments at once. Keep warm clothes handy in case of need.

KEEP CLEAN. Garbage cans should be covered tightly. If disposal facilities are lacking garbage should be burned. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies and insects which might carry virus.

DON'T SWIM IN DIRTY. Polluted water and places marked "no swimming" should be especially avoided. It is safest to use only authorized beaches and public pools declared safe by health officials.

KEEP OUT OF CROWDS. Tennis is one of the sports which does not involve close contact with other people. It is wise to stop playing before you get overtired. The injunction to avoid fatigue and crowds applies to work, although it is more difficult to adjust work schedules.
