Taupe gray crepe frock.

By VERA WINSTON

THE selective shopper, especially when she has to dress well for many events, on a budget, seeks a frock that fits smartly but unobtrusively into any but the most dressy picture. With well-chosen accessories, she is able to give a good basic dress a new charm. This one should fill the bill nicely. It is of taupe gray crepe and has a simple, notched neckline and cap sleeves. Flared unpressed pleats give the skirt front fullness and tucking radiates from the center front. The back is gored with a center seam.

Jeff Reece Is Host Of House Party

Jeff Reece entertained a group of friends at a three-day house party last week at the summer camp of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Reece, near Cruso, Mr. and Mrs. Reece accompanied the group.

Miss Dorothy Richeson Is Wed To J. K. Stringfield

Miss Dorothy Virginia Richeson, daughter of Mrs. Lancelot Minor Richeson and the late Mr. Richeson, became the bride of James King Stringfield, son of Mrs. Samuel Lanier Stringfield and the late Dr. Stringfield, in a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church at four-thirty o'clock in the afternoon, Saturday, August 27.

The Rev. Malcolm Williamson, pastor officiated.

The altar of the church was decorated with floor baskets of white gladioli and hydrangea against a background of palms and woodwardia fern, and sections reserved for members of the families were marked with white gladioli tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Bette Hannah, organist, and Mrs. James Kirkpatrick, soloist, presented the wedding music. Prior to the ceremony Miss Hannah played "Claire de Lune," by Debussy, "Andante Cantabile" by Tschakowsky, "At Dawning" and "Shubert's Serenade," "To A Wild Rose" was played softly while the vows were spoken and Mrs. Kirkpatrick sang "O Perfect Love" as a benediction. The traditional wedding marches were used as processional and recessional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, John M. Richeson, wore a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. The long sleeved basque waist was appliqued to a high round yoke of silk marquisette and a graceful lace fish-tail peplum fell over the skirt which ended in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a coronet of hand-made orange blossoms and she carried a fan-shaped bouquet of white roses showered with tube roses.

Miss Ehel Louise Evans of Pittsboro, Pa., cousin of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a dress of maize marquisette and lace designed like that of the bride's and a coronet of white asters. She carried a fan of white asters tied with Nile green satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Lu Elwood, Miss Betty Gene Alley, and Miss Lois Massie. Their dresses were of Nile green marquisette and lace, identical in design to that of the maid of honor. They also wore coronets of asters and carried fan-shaped bouquets of white asters tied with maize colored satin ribbon.

The flower girl, little Miss Lynn Kilpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Kilpatrick, wore a dress of yellow marquisette fashioned after those of the other attendants and carried a basket trimmed with Nile green ribbon and filled with rose petals.
