ACA Has $2,000 Extra For County Farmers

The Agricultural Conservation Association office here advised Haywood County farmers recently that it now has $2,000 extra federal money for conservation materials.

Farmers who have not received such aid during the 1949 program year are advised to file their requests soon as possible since this money is available for a limited time only.

Office spokesmen reported that more Haywood farmers have been participating in the ACA program (successor to the old AAA) since September 1948 than during the same period the previous year.

Since last September, the agency has spent $84,342.67 for conservation materials issued to 1,689 farmers.

During the same period the previous year, 1,462 farmers participated.

Approximately 90 people from several western North Carolina counties are expected at St. John's School Auditorium at noon Sunday for the first dinner of the St. John's Catholic Laymen's Association.

The Rev. Francis A. McCarthy of Raleigh, director of Catholic Action for the North Carolina diocese, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Douglas Grant, the dinner chairman, also said in her announcement today that among those scheduled to appear at the session are Mrs. Francis J. McMahon of Asheville, state president of the Catholic Laymen's Association; and Bernard Ferrey, president of the Association's Asheville unit.

The dinner is being arranged under the general direction of James Hurdley of Canton, president of the St. John's unit.

Besides 20 visitors from Asheville, others will come from Swannanoa, and from the St. John's Church missions at Fontana, Franklin, Sylva, Cherokee, Canton, and Bryson City.

In general direction of the dinner is Miss Gertrude Flannagan of Cherokee, while Raymond Hart of Hazelwood is treasurer; and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sanderson of Balsam, hospitality chairman.

Douglas Grant of Waynesville is handling the tickets, assisted by Henry Elliott of Fontana, John Vasilik of Franklin, and Charles Miller of Waynesville.

The responsibility for the nursery to take care of the youngsters accompanying their parents to the dinner falls on Mrs. Raymond Hart.

Assisting Miss Flannagan with the dinner are Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Spaldon Underwood of Waynesville, Mrs. Raymond C. Lane of Lake Junaluska, and the Misses Anne Kramer, Grace and Nancy Furtado, Dorothy Marie, Ann Mormino, and Beta Grant, all of St. John's School.

Ratliff Cove, Junaluska To Hold Events

Ratliff Cove and Lake Junaluska contestants will play the remainder of the events of their inter-community Field Day Tuesday afternoon at Lake Junaluska.
