Patrolmen Need Help of Courts

Last week Governor Scott called the heads of the Hishway Patrol div and the softee. and among the requests made, was "to make on the highways, and enforce the laws."

From all accounts common out of the mosting, the Governor is anxious, but the III the way Patrolinen clamp down or traffic madetions, in order to curb the court in all accutents.

The Covernor's actors are well taken but in our opinion, he do not not a country

And right here let us harves a say, that this newspaper is for it is enforcement of all highway traffic laws, and a prompt and fair trial to every offender, with proper punishment for the quilty.

It is our further combate that the his hway patrol is doing all it can to each accordance. and traffic violations. The real on the appearent work of the patrol less sot show up more effectively, is the slowners in which the wheels of justice turn.

There are too many instances where patrolmen have made arrests of motorists violating the law, only to have the one entwined in court procedures and never tried.

Would-be violators know this, and feel that if they are unfortunate enough to get caught, that they too can maneuver their case and never suffer the penalty of being a violator of a traffic law, even wren the broken law endangered the lives of others on the highways.

Traffic accidents which are caused by downright reckless crixing can be curbed when, and only when, the laws governing them prove it has teeth which can bite, and bite hard.

When laws are not rendly enforced, and the penalty consistently inflicted, the penale get to the point of diare ardine such laws. and doing as they please. That is, in our opinion, what is happening to our traffic laws, and the highway patrolmen alone cannot remedy the situation.

Out of 2,129 registered barber shops in North Carolina, only 19 were cited for violating sanitary laws during the past year, and all 19 were convicted. Sounds lika a good record for the 5.912 registered barbers in the state. Among the highlights of their recent convention, was the study of combatting dandruff with a new projections sax.

The Other Side of the Picture

Last week we received a letter from one of our subscribers, with the following question:

"Who are the 14 missionaries pictured in your September first issue on page one of your second section, as set for an invasion of Haywood. Are they coming to convert the heathen?" The letter was duly signed, but the name of the writer is being withheld, in order to save them embarrassment

The 14 missionaries mentioned, were part of 20 Baptist missionaries, brought here for a week's engagement at the various Bautist churches in Haywood.

The missionaries were not here to convert anvene.

Haywood County Baptists are among the state's largest contributors of funds for missions in all parts of the world. The church leaders felt that since so much is contributed by Haywood Baptists, that it would be fitting and proper to bring in some mechanics to be are home on furlough from foreign fields to tell of what they are doing and some of the accomplishments.

Added to the group from foreign fields. were state and home workers, who came along to complete the story of Baptist mission

The entire week was one of "reporting the facts" from China, Africa, South America. and many, many other points.

The church leaders feel that the members of the churches were due these "reports" and also an opportunity to see, and hear first hand from the people who represent the denomination in so many foreign ports.

No. Mr. Reader. The missionaries were not here to convert the heathen. They were here to tell Haywood Baptists what they were doing to convert the heathen in many, many foreign lands. And Haywood Baptisty are happy to have had a part in this work.

Great Smoky Second

The Charlotte Observer had a timely editorual the other day, which caught our fancy, in which they dealt with the importance of the Great Smokies. The editorial read:

It is to be doubted that any of the members of the North Carolina Legislature anticipated when they voted a comparatively small appropriation to help in financing the creation of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park that in less than 25 years it would attract more visitors than the long-famed Yellow- building . . . Answer: They are almost bound to, more or less, since extremes of best, cold, or humidity affect the ways in which your body functions. But the healthier-minded you are, the less violent your reaction to the weather will be. A neurotic "takes the weather personally," so that if it rains when ne'd planned to play tennis, he has the same feelings of rage and trimtration as if someone had deiberately cheated him out of his essure. Mother Nature is not so roast or freeze you; she s ner own laws, which you et "adjust to."

Answer: Naturally. Anyone would rather start at the top if he could. But a young man who will not accept the fact that he can't do so is a victim of bad education. A child starts by feeling that he has a right to anything he wants be-

Can we tell whether a nation is "war-minded"?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Leo Alexander in the American Journal of Psychiatry. Drawing on the history of Germany under the Nazis, he lists four "basic signs" that a nation is tending toward aggression; (1) the choice of destructive ways of solving social problems (killing off a "privileged" class, for example); (2) appealing to fear as the motive of individual and national action; (3) abolition of the rights of individuals; and (4) cutting off the sources of free information. A nation which follows these patterns
