Library Notes

MARGARET JOHNSTON COUNTY LIBRARIAN

LAKE JUNALUSKA

For the first time we have had a collection of 202 books down at the Boat House at the lake this summer. Their small library is sponsored by the Women's Club with Miss Bruce McDonald in charge. During their very short season 365 people checked out 1067 books. It is a very popular place and many gather there to read and to meet other people.

In addition to this many of the people from there came to the library here in town to get books. Several of the children joined our Vacation Reading Club this summer and received Reading Certificates.

Merchants Plan Special School Of Retailing

(Special Correspondence) RALEIGH — Within the next three years thousands of merchants and other businessmen throughout North Carolina will be given an opportunity to participate in the training of $200,000 for the establishment and operation of a special School of Retailing at the University of North Carolina.

Object of the plan is to attract young men and women of ability to the retailing field and to provide them with special training during their years in college in purchasing, managing and the general operation of retail stores.

Leon Lipinsky of Asheville has been named chairman of a Chair of Retailing Committee of the N.C. Merchants Association and this group working in close cooperation with the N.C. Business Foundation and officials of the School of Commerce at the University, is now laying the foundation for the project which eventually will reach into every county and city in the State.

Members of the board of directors of the N.C. Merchants Association gave their stamp of approval to the plan at a recent meeting held in Charlotte. An operating committee was appointed last week and is now in the process of laying out a program.

The fact that distribution is not keeping pace with production is prompting leading merchants to look with enthusiasm on the plan to set up the School of Retailing which will operate on funds to be solicited by the N.C. Business Foundation and appropriations from the University of North Carolina.

Dellwood Church To Observe First Anniversary

The Dellwood Methodist Church will celebrate its first birthday next Sunday.

The day will be Homecoming Sunday, with worship services, a dinner on the grounds and a song service to highlight the anniversary, the Rev. J. E. B. Houser, pastor of the Dellwood Methodist Circuit, said today in his announcement.

One year ago next Sunday, the Dellwood Church opened on its new location.

All former pastors and members and their friends are invited to take part in the occasion.

The pastor said special recognition will be paid to the charter members of the church, to the most elderly man and woman present, the couple who have been married longest, the couple who have been married most recently, and to the youngest boy and youngest girl present.

Church School will start at 10 a. m., and preaching and public worship services will follow at 11 o'clock.

The dinner will be held at noon on the grounds, if the weather is favorable, and song services will follow immediately afterward.

Mr. Houser said: "We extend a most cordial invitation to our sister Baptist Church in Dellwood and all our friends to worship with us."

Ratcliffe Cove Boys Defeat Saunook Boys

We're blushing. The Ratcliffe Cove boys are blushing.

The Saunook girls probably are irked. The girls got credit last Monday for a lost softball game.

The boys got credit for winning one. And boys being boys they'd rather not.

The Ratcliffe Cove boys did win a softball game.

But not from the Saunook girls. They beat the Saunook BOYS.

The Saunook girls won their ball game. They played Upper Crabtree and won, 10-8. The Upper Crabtree GIRLS, that is.

Somehow or other, communications got garbled as they sometimes do on rush days, and we had the Ratcliffe Cove boys defeating the Saunook girls.

But they didn't. Still, a boys' team playing a girls' team.

It's been done before. But not in Ratcliffe Cove.

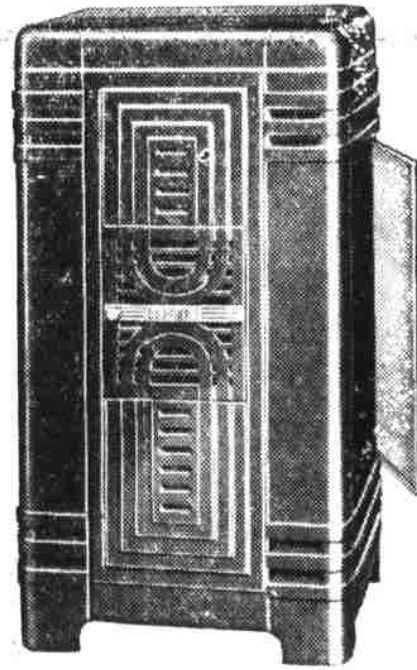

Not last Saturday, anyway.

NORRIS RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Norris, who have been visiting relatives here, left Monday for their home in Nahomish, Washington. They were accompanied by Mr. Norris' sister, Mrs. Dill Howell, who will be their guest for several months, and Mrs. Ethel Gossett, who will visit her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Jackson, in Madris, Oregon.
