Mr. Davis Thinks It Must Be Special Event

Lee Davis, Haywood County Hospital administrator, figured it was a special occasion of some sort when he saw the hospital dining room at noon Friday. It had a new look. Gay summer flowers decorated the tables. The table at which Mr. Davis was to sit was centered with a beautiful birthday cake. He was right. It was a special occasion. The members took time off during their lunch hour to remind him of it with the surprise party and a gift. It was a double celebration, incidentally. It also turned out to be the birthday of Mrs. Ellen Freeman, the hospital's superintendent of nurses, and the information turned the tables, giving the surprise-givers a surprise. Mrs. Freeman was promptly presented with a beautiful gift. Mr. Davis and Mrs. Freeman thanked the members of the staff for their friendly consideration. Then everyone went back to work. The employees on the other two shifts shared in the birthday, too, though they could not attend the noon dinner. There was a birthday cake for each shift. The event was another bit of evidence of the spirit of congenial

WHY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts. There is no Need for Strikes With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike. The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances. What are These Strikes About? These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.
