

Duke, Tar Heels Lead Southern

Three teams are undefeated and tied in the Southern Conference as the collegiate football season heads into its next big weekend.

Seven teams sport perfect records in Southern Conference family competition alone.

But the race is settling into what observers believe will be a dog-fight among Carolina's Tar Heels, Duke, and Wake Forest.

Duke's Blue Devils surprised everyone but their supporters, closest to the fundamental information when they slapped a strong Tennessee eleven around, 21-7, last Saturday at Knoxville.

Now the Blue Devils are rated as the "surprise team" of the South.

North Carolina's Tar Heels, with victories over North Carolina State and Georgia, are still ranked as the No. 1 choice to repeat Clemson-Tigers as the kings of the conference.

Wake Forest, edged by Southern Methodist and Boston College by a touchdown apiece, the last two weekends, is going after its second victory of the season Friday night against an underdog Georgetown eleven.

The Deacons, in spite of their two losses, are still rated as the most dangerous collection of threats to the title hopes of North Carolina and Duke. The Deacons tangle with the Tar Heels a week from Saturday and engage Duke later in the season.

The Tar Heels are scheduled to meet their second conference opponent of the season Saturday afternoon at Columbia, S. C., where they face South Carolina's battered Gamecocks.

Duke travels to Baltimore for a Saturday afternoon meeting with a resurging Navy squad.

North Carolina State, virtually knocked out of the conference race by losses to North Carolina and Clemson on successive weekends, still are figured tough enough to spoil somebody's little dream world before the season is over—meaning Wake Forest, Duke, or both.

State tackles a scrappy but undermanned Davidson team Saturday night at Charlotte.

The standings in the Conference, including all games:

	W	L	T

George Washington	0	2	0
South Carolina	0	2	0
N. C. State	0	2	0

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

DETROIT (UP)—Lee Spikes said there's no place like home to hide out from police. After a five-year search, detectives found him where he had been all the time, at home. In the meantime, Spikes had been placed on probation twice and served 10 days in jail.

Successfully last week by trouncing the Cherokee-Little Braves at Canton.

Tomorrow night, the Champion midget reserves will play each other in a game that will be the preliminary to the contest between Waynesville's Mountaineers and Canton High at Black Bear Stadium.

Georgia Back Rambles For Short Gain Tar Heels Sixth In Grid Poll

Jack McHugh (26), Georgia halfback, rambles around end for eight yards in game with North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Saturday. His short jaunt occurred in second quarter. Center Ivy Holdash (25) of North Carolina lunges in on the play. McHugh was halted by Holdash and halfback Dick Buntine (30). Georgia player (86) is Tackle Dick Yelvington. No. 72 is Verelick, North Carolina fullback. North Carolina defeated Georgia, 21-14. (AP Photo)

Long Island, New York, produced about 10 per cent of the steel workers of the United States are grown in America.

North Carolina's Tar Heels are ranked the sixth best in the nation in this week's Associated Press football standings.

The Tar Heels, who edged Georgia's Bulldogs, 21-14, in the final 90 seconds last Saturday at Chapel Hill, gained three votes for first place in the weekly poll of national football experts.

Michigan is rated as the nation's best and Notre Dame is a close second.

Oklahoma is third, Tulane fourth and Minnesota fifth ahead of the Tar Heels.

Behind North Carolina comes Army, Southern California, Southern Methodist, and California.

Duke, 21-7 victor over Tennessee last weekend, is rated 14th.

North Carolina rated in the top 10 teams of the nation for the last four seasons, finished in third place in 1948 after getting no worse than a tie on its record in a 10-game regular schedule.

In 1946 and '47, the Tar Heels were ranked ninth at the end of each season.

Boosting the pride of North Carolina supporters a little higher is the report of Georgia Scout Skip Jordan.

The Bulldog operative, who ought to know, rates the passing combination of Charlie Justice-to-Art Wemyer equal to the immortal Alabama two-some of Dixie Howell and Don Hutson.

Fullback Billy Hayes he rates as capable enough as a runner and passer to fill in for the immortal Justice.

Duke In Surprising Romp Over Tennessee

Billy Cox (foreground, No. 17), Duke tailback, picks up five yards around end during first quarter of game with Tennessee in Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday. He was tackled by unidentified Tennessee player in left foreground. The Blue Devils from Durham, scored in each of the last three periods to ride to a surprising 21-7 win over highly-rated Tennessee. STAGG IN 60TH GRID SEASON

NEW YORK (AP)—Alonso Alonzo Stagg, the man who retired 17 years ago as "too old" to coach, is in his 60th season as a football coach this fall.

Stagg is advisory coach of Susquehanna, where his son, Anos

Alonso Stagg, Jr., is head coach. Stagg was retired by the University of Chicago in 1932 when he reached the age of 70. From Chicago he went to the College of Pacific for 14 more years and is in his third year at Susquehanna.

ONE OUTSIDER

NEW YORK (AP)—George (Eck) Allen, West Virginia '35, is the only non-alumnus on Fordham's six-man football coaching staff. Allen was an outstanding quarterback for the W. Va. Mountaineers from 1932 through 1934.
