by the Bicycle Institute of America, Inc. that can help to keep bicycle accidents

RALEIGH. - In an effort to combat a bie cle death rate averaging three a month-two of these being under 20 years of age-,the Highway Safety Division of the North Carolina Department of Motor Velucles has launched a campaign to organize bicycle safety clubs throughout the State, the Department reported today. During the first eight months of this year 26 persons were killed in bicycle accidents. Fifteen of these were under 20. Oddly, all 15 were boys. In the same period 156 persons were injured. 117 being under 20, an increase of 43 in injuries among voungsters over last year. Of the 117 youngsters who were hurt. 105 were boys and 12 girls. Division officials accounted for the higher incident of deaths and injuries among boys by pointing out that more boys than girls ride bikes and that boys are inclined to be more daring than girls.

With the opening of schools broughout the State, the Highway Safety Division saw increased hazand in carelessly operated bicycles s youngsters pedal back and forth to school and band together for all Working through its field representatives, the division is assisting interested communities in laying the groundwork for setting up bieyele safety clubs, with local organizations sponsoring the groups. In communities where no interest has been expressed, field representatives are attempting to arouse interest by pointing out that bicycle accidents rate high on the list of highway mishaps that kill and injure the youth of the State each

Under the supervision of Z. E. Helms, Raleigh, chief of the driver improvement and educational section of the Division, a number of pamplets have been prepared outlining methods of organizing bicycle safety clubs, conducting bicycle operation and maintenance tests, and stimulating interest in safe bicycling through contests and Safety experts have found that bicycle safety clubs have had a marked effect in cutting down on accidents in areas where they have been organized, Helms said.
