Breeders Discuss Policy At Meeting Held In Statesville.

The Haywood Cooperative Breeding Association's representatives met with the Southeastern Artis ficial Breeding Association's Pol-icy Committee at Statesville recently to discuss, recommend, and vote on various matters of policy: The Policy Meeting was headed by Lee W. Meredith of Trinity. At the meeting, Dean I. Q. Schaub, Director of Extension at the North Carolina State College, told members of the committee that the program of the Southeastern A. B. Ass'n., which uses High Index Proved Sires exclusively, is heartily approved by the Staff of North Carolina State College. He pledged the continued support of the Extension Service. Prof. John Arey of the College's Dairy Extension Dept., reported that the excellence of the calves resulting from artificial service is already becoming apparent, for in the general county fairs all the calves in the blue classes were sired through artificial insemination by Southeastern A. B. Association's bulls. The Committeemen were urged by Prof. John Brown, Extension Dairyman, to see that their organizations are run on a businesslike basis, and C. W. Sheffield of the North Carolina State Dept. of Markets mentioned that the State Law reugired their organizations to make annual reports of finances, and that the uniform bookkeeping service offered by Southeastern A. B. Ass'n. to the local organization would be very helpful to them.

The Policy Committee passed two resolutions: one to the effect that they would hold a technician's conference at Asheville next year, and another, commending the North Carolina State College's Husbandry Staff for holding training schools for technicians. They reelected the same officers for next year: Lee W. Meredith of Trinity, chairman; R. B. Phillips of Toecane, secretary and E. C.

Joe Palmer of Clyde and H. Singletary of Wayensville were representatives for the Haywood Cooperative Breeding Association, which furnishes semen from the High Index Proved Sires of Southeastern A. B. Association at the regular insemination charge.
