Inflation Hits Nickels In Georgia

EDDINGTON, Ga. (AP)—The Georgia department of markets and food control has issued a bulletin on a lack of the trouble from inflation hitting the pocket of the Georgia farmer. The value of the nickel was down when the farmer needed the price of all things he has to buy. The bulletin is as follows: "Some farmers and others could not afford to buy the nickel. Some farmers absorbed the loss. Others were forced to sell their property at a loss."
