Meat Cutter John C. Sykes of Raleigh, shows Nurse Anne Dobbins the butcher knife he used in accidentally making an incision for the removal of his own appendix. The knife slipped as he cut pork chops in a market and gashed him on the spot just over the appendix. The knife blade damaged the appendix and so doctors removed it through the gash already made. ### 8-Day Mission For Polish People Set

An eight-day mission for the Polish-speaking members of St. John's church will be conducted Sunday, October 30 through Sunday, November 6. A Polish sermon will be delivered after the 11:00 o'clock Mass on both Sundays and each weekday night at 7:30 by the Rev. Stanislas Grubowki, a victim of three years' imprisonment in the notorious Dachau Concentration Camp.

Clyde P.T.A. Will Sponsor Festival Float

The Clyde School Parent-Teacher Association voted at its meeting Thursday to under-write one-half of the expenses of a float to be entered by Clyde in the Haywood County Tobacco Festival parade next month.

This float is to be made by a committee of South Clyde Community Development members, under the direction of Mrs. Levi Morgan, P.T.A. president, and Miss Patie Freeman, teacher. Robert C. Evans, Clyde agriculture teacher, is chairman of the float committee.

Another highlight of this second regular meeting was a discussion on safety by Charles F. Lanning, Clyde police chief.

Chief Lanning is assisted by the Clyde Boy Scouts in directing traffic through the danger hours of early morning, noon and afternoon. He said that parents help train their children in safety measures, yet turn right around and break the same rules themselves.

Mrs. Howard Shook was program leader, while Mrs. Joyce Haynes gave the devotional program.

Mrs. Edith Cannon's second and third grade class, and John Byers' twelfth grade were awarded large framed pictures to be hung in their classrooms. The pictures were gifts from the P.T.A. to the rooms that had won the mother attendance banner in the elementary and in high school the largest percent of the months last school year.

These two rooms also had the largest number of mothers present at the Thursday meeting and will keep the banners until next month's session of the P.T.A.

It was decided that the parents and teachers will have a foods booth at the school Hallowe'en carnival with proceeds to go to the association treasury.

Mrs. Morgan said that the local association has been invited to attend an all-day P.T.A. meet at East Waynesville School on Wednesday.

Duke's New President From The Tennessee Hills

A tall Tennessee mountaineer, who looks a little like Abraham Lincoln, will be inaugurated Saturday as president of Duke University at Durham, one of the nation's richest schools. He is Dr. Hollis Edens who worked as a lumberjack, a rural mail carrier on horse-back and a day laborer in an Akron rubber plant before he scaled the heights as an educator. Upper left: Dr. Edens poses for a close-up with Duke's Gothic tower for a background. Upper right: He and his pretty wife, likewise a Tennessean. Lower left: As principal of Cumberland Mountain School at Crossville, Tenn., in the early '30s; Dr. Edens chats with students at the school's entrance. One of his abiding ambitions is to know his students personally. Lower right: A lover of outdoor sports, Dr. Edens takes a mighty swing at bat in a baseball game played by faculty members at Duke. He formerly served as dean at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., then as vice chancellor of the University System of Georgia, and later as associate director of the General Education Board in New York. He is a native of Lexington, Tenn., population 2,500. (AP)
