Civil War Munitions Still Bad Medicine

ATLANTA (UP)—The "shoot-ing" phase of the Civil War hasn't ended yet, federal agents warn in a current pamphlet. As recently as two years ago, two 1865 Minie balls exploded on the site of the destroyed Georgia town of Manassas when a housewife propped her washpot on them, and lit a fire.

The shells tore the pot to fragments and damaged the house. Federal agents also reported that a Pennsylvania farmer was killed near historic Gettysburg when his horse kicked up a shell which had lain under the soil since ricketty charge. The pamphlet warns that Civil War souvenirs, like those of the two world wars, still are as "dangerous as a rattlesnake."

Warnings posted on rusty cannon balls at various Confederate, state and national parks say: "Hards off—live ammunition."

Cow Thief Blames His Ulcers For The Crime

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mr. Larry C. Barton, of Sand Springs, noticed the cow he just bought seemed homelick. He noticed also that the horns drooped. And he read that a cow with droopy horns had been stolen. Checking up, sure enough he found that he had bought a stolen cow. He got his money back. The rustler was traced, confessed, and blamed it all on the fact that he had ulcers, seven children and a house that burned down.

Thief Gets Hot Foot, And Back Into Jail

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—One James found out he had better watch his step after this. Picked up by Police Lt. Joe Borch on suspicion in the theft of a $20 bill, James told a court today story and was released. As he left headquarters, police noticed he had a slight limp. In fact, C.O.s examination showed the sole of his left shoe was a bit thicker than his right. The $20 bill was folded under the sole. In jail, James said "I'd have gotten away if I'd not squatted a little."

White Rabbit Thinks And Acts Like A Cat

LOS ANGELES (UP)—So if he has been doing any thing, so you really can't blame him for thinking he's a cat. Pinky is a little white rabbit, but he doesn't seem to know it. He grew up with Gertrude, an Angora cat which he owned with little Kathy and Ann Shelton. When Gertrude died, he put on fashion, Pinky took a bath too. Gertrude lays milk from a saucer. Pinky sleeps from another.

Red Cars Speed Up Traffic, Says Cops

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you dislike having other motorists jockey past you while trying to drive at a safe and steady pace? If so, don't buy a red car, advises Howard Ketcham, color and design engineer. A test of motorists' reactions showed that drivers are more impatient when trailing a red car because red is the most stimulating color—hence the greater urge to pass. Cream and yellow colors are also stimulating, while black, blues and greens without yellow undertones are the colors less inciting to the driver in the following car, Mr. Ketcham reports.
