Mr. Babson And Business In 1950

We are publishing in today susates that attnual predictions for the course, year be-Roger W. Babson.

Of course, we all know, that Mr. Baison depends entirely on his predictions he careful calculations, and does not possess any super-natural facilities for levelelling the future. By the practical resplication of science, to a background or sofistus, plus caution, he has been able to rule up for himself a grade of over 25 our continuences That in itself is worthy of pay office.

Mr. Babson's predictions for the business in 1950 are just a little on the tark side. Ingeneral, he sees a urop of retail trade of arom 3 to 10 per cent.

Haywood Does It Again

Early in the Christmas season, a number of worthy charitable programs were started in Haywood. These included the Luins Club poor fund, the Salvation Army, the Taberculosis seals sale, the Welfare list of needy neople, and the work of several other cranizations throughout the county.

By the time Santa arrived Saturday night lmost every goal had been met.

The 43 persons on the Welfare list work caply cared for, and the host of clothera taken by the Lions Club were clothed, and the Salvation Army spread cheer and supplied needy people with food and clothing.

It just goes to prove once again that Havwood county always comes through on worthy projects.

The Top News Story

Already a list of the ten top stories of the ar have been selected, and just like All-American football teams, they vary in some de ree with each group.

Our first choice of all top stories for 1949 was a story that did not happen, like soname predicted. We did not have war with Bassia, and neither did the third World War l break out.

Phat is something to be thankful for, which many of us have perhaps overloyed ituring the holiday season.

A Greater Junaluska

The expansion program of Lake Junaluska Assembly is bigger than most of us realize. Can a girl who limps be attractive to men?

Answer: If she is attractive otherwise, this will mainly depend on how she feels about her lameness. A slight physical defect may have more serious emotiona! results than a severe one became the victim is more likely to compare himself with "normal" people and feel inferior to them A girl who was painfully self-conscious about some minor defect might become so sensitive and "touchy" that she would discourage any man's attentions, where if she were able to forget herself, the defect would handicap her
