L. Crabtree To Hold Amateur Program Jan. 14

By MRS. MILLARD FERGUSON Mountaineer Correspondent The L. Crabtree Community Development Program organization is sponsoring an Amateur Show at 7 p.m. at the Crabtree-Duff School.

The varied program will include debate, special music by soloists, duets, and quartets composed of members of the community, and four prizes to the oldest couple and the youngest couple attending the event.

Besides this, a bald-headed man will be crowned.

Home-made candy and cookies, and coffee will be served to the members of the audience.

The admission receipts of ten cents for each child and 20 cents for each adult will be used to help finance the community's basketball teams.

Iron Duff, Ratcliffe Cove To Meet In Debate

The debaters and spellers of Iron Duff and Ratcliffe Cove will clash in a battle of words the night of January 23 at the Haywood County Court House.

They are scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

Advance reports have it that the debate on the matter of the County Home will be the main bout on the card.

Ratcliffe Cove's two season campaigners of the rostrum—Bob and Charlie Francis—will face Iron Duff's Frank Davis and Mrs. C. O. Newell.

The Ratcliffe Cove team, which has won one match and lost one so far this season, will argue the affirmative side of the question: Resolved, that Haywood county should no longer support and maintain the home.

The Iron Duff standard-bearers will argue in favor of the continuation of the home.

The Francis duet, however, has had previous experience in arguing their point. Charlie Francis was the only member of the team to debate East Pigeon on the subject last week, but Bob Francis had had his arguments prepared on both sides.

Charlie won the judges' decision by a shutout.

The Iron Duff spellers also face rough sledding when they start landing words back and forth.

The Ratcliffe Cove team is undefeated and untied in two matches so far.

Ratcliffe Cove To Elect 1950 Officers Tonight

By Mrs. Aisic Ratcliffe Mountaineer Correspondent

It's not that they're unhappy over the present administration or anything, but the Ratcliffe Cove folks are going to have an election tonight anyway.

They'll meet at 7:30 P. M. at the Community Building to pick the officers who will head the Ratcliffe Cove Community Development Program for 1950.

A nominating committee, which has been working more than a week, has completed the lineup and will offer the names of the candidates to the people at the session.

Bob Francis, the incumbent community chairman, urges everyone to attend this meeting to decide who will be the community leaders for 1950.

Wendell Holmes' Gavel Put Back In Service

IPSWICH (UP)—While the late Oliver Wendell Holmes was chief justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, some 50 years ago, he broke his gavel.

He asked Jim Bersted, a carpenter, to repair it. Bersted took the gavel and ordered some special wood for the repairs. But there was a long delay and eventually the broken gavel was forgotten.

Recently, in his workshop, Bersted came across the long-forgotten gavel, repaired it, and presented it to District Judge George H. W. Hayes, 79, who now uses it regularly. As a young barrister, Hayes practiced law in courts over which Justice Holmes presided.

German And U.S. Youths To Exchange Flights

HANNOVER, Germany (UP)—German youth leaders, meeting in Goslar, enthusiastically welcomed an idea from America for a flying exchange of youthful visitors next year.

Richard Schiemann, chairman of the meeting, told the leaders that Monroe Smith, founder of the American youth hostel system, had arranged for the conversion of eight American Air Force bombers into "flying youth hostels."

Schiemann said it was planned to shuttle the planes between New York and Frankfurt, Germany, to bring American students to Germany and German students to the United States. The charge for the flight, he said, would be about one-half of an ocean passage.

The residents of South Clyde discussed the heating facilities of the Clyde School gymnasium when they held their Community Development Program meeting last Monday night.

The general opinion was that the heating facilities were not adequate to take care of both the school and the gym.

The discussion took place before an audience of 55 people who included Coleman Francis, Roy Haynes and B. B. Latimer, all members of the Clyde School Board.

Then Mrs. P. C. Mann, Sam Jackson, and William Osborne, the community chairman, were appointed to a committee to accompany the members of the school board to a meeting with the Board of Education and County Schools Superintendent Jack Messer regarding the matter.

The conference will be to decide whether it is possible to provide a system which would be installed in the gym, separate from the school.
