U. Sutton of Sylva, told the group that his organization will continue working on campaign plans for obtaining more federal money for the national forests.

In the course of the session also the members praised the Western North Carolina Tourist Association for its efforts in organizing individual county associations and for promoting the improvement of western tourist facilities.

They heard WNCAC President Percy B. Ferebee's reports on projects being worked for the benefit of the western section as a whole. In addition to the officials named those attending the session included: E. C. Guy of Newland, Francis J. Heazel of Asheville, Dr. Kelly E. Bennett of Bryson City, the Commission's vice-chairman; C. M. Douglas of Brevard, secretary; Commission Attorney William Medford; Mrs. Edith P. Alley, the secretary of the Waynesville office.

Robert P. White, of the Park headquarters office at Gatlinburg; and Cliff Senne, Park ranger for the Waynesville district.

Ramps

held ever since it was organized. The new appointments brought the board roll up to 13.

Bill Palmer, whose furniture store was the scene of the meeting, called the Tar Heel Secretary of State by phone. Mr. Eure promptly accepted the invitation to be chief speaker.

At the same time, Mr. Medford reported that Mr. Bridges had written a request for a "reservation".

In other business, the officials agreed that everybody who plans to attend the session ought to bring their lunch to supplement the ramps. But at the same time they decided that anyone who overlooked the matter should not be permitted to go hungry.

One cannot, they decided, with all due respect to the guest of honor, live by ramps alone.

Hence, they'll provide country ham and fresh eggs at a small charge for the folks who rush off from home without their picnic baskets.

However, the coffee, with the cream and sugar that goes with it, and, of course, the ramps, will be given away free.

Turning their attention to the coffee problem, they noted that last year's 6,000-plus guests drank as a chaser for the ramps something like 1,100 gallons of coffee.

This tremendous quantity is expected to pale into a mere drop by comparison with what they expect in the way of consumption.

Considering this and the top capacity of 60 to 70 gallons last year's pot could make at any given time, they decided on a bigger one. To take care of this extra load, they'll use a 150-gallon still—remodeled, of course, to suit coffee-making requirements. Named to a committee to handle this matter were Dewey Sutton and Claude Williams.

With this year's event set for only a few weeks before the State Democratic Primary, many state officials and candidates for state, federal, district, and county offices are certain to attend. Among other state officials expected is State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine, who's been there before.

The same reason also is expected to draw a greater number of visitors than last year's record-breaking event.

The new date is about two weeks later than the time set for previous Ramp Conventions.

But Mr. Medford, recalling last year's chill, wind-swept April Sunday, explained that the time was moved up in hopes that the gathering would be favored by warmer weather.

Asked whether the ramps might not be too strong by that time, Mr. Medford replied: "They'll be bigger than they usually are for the Convention. But they won't be too powerful."

The committee to obtain food for the folks who don't bring any will be named at the next meeting, which also will be held at Mr. Palmer's store.

authorize $500,000.000 for the year ending June 30, 1952, and the same amount for the year ending June 30, 1953.

Redden said the $12,800,000 he wants for the Blue Ridge Parkway would complete it except for a stretch in the Roanoke, Va., area, which would be by-passed at this time because of the great cost of building roads in the mountain territory and because there are nearby State and Federal roads which could be used by travelers on the parkway.
