Power Co. Booklet Features County Electric Plant

Walters Dam, near Waterville in Haywood County, is prominently featured in an attractive illustrated booklet just published by the Carolina Power and Light Company of Raleigh.

A picture of the hydroelectric plant, named for Charles S. Walters of Asheville, vice-president of the firm, occupies the front cover, which bears the words—"Welcome To Walters Hydroelectric Plant."

The booklet, prepared by Bill Sharpe, the company's public relations director, discusses each of the firm's principal plants in North Carolina and South Carolina.

Sharpe, former director of the State Advertising Division, earlier had written illustrated feature stories about the Walters Dam and plant for the North Carolina daily newspapers.

prominent part in the 50-car parade, which will be led by a group of Cherokee Indians in full war dress.

The first stop will be in Greenville, with other stops and parades on Wednesday in Easley, Pickens and Anderson. The following day, Laurens, Spartanburg and Greer will be paraded.

Large placards will be put on every vehicle, and Cpl. John Carpenter of the State Highway Patrol will lead the motorcade, being joined at the South Carolina line by patrolmen from that state and city police in every town.

The time is set to leave the court house here promptly at 7:30 Wednesday, May 31st.

erans of World War I or World War II to notify Legion representatives of the exact location of the veterans' graves in the county.

"We've been working up a list of them during the past few years," he said, "but it is not yet complete."

"We are hoping that the veterans' kin will cooperate with us in this program."

He said the names of the deceased veterans and the location of their graves may be given to either Howell Crawford, the Legion Post's graves registration officer, or to him either in person or by letter.

Mr. Ferguson issued an invitation today to all Gold Star Parents, war veterans, and all veterans' organizations to attend the services.

James H. Howell, Jr., in charge of the arrangements for the program for the local American Legion, announced the details of the program.

He said the ceremonies would also feature the distribution of flags to relatives of the dead seafarers for placement on their graves, and particularly urged all relatives of dead veterans with graves in out-lying cemeteries to attend the services.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. J. E. Yountz, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Waynesville, and the Rev. M. R. Williamson, pastor of the Waynesville Presbyterian Church, will offer the closing prayer.

The Waynesville Township High School band will play for the ceremonies, and a squad of the Waynesville Heavy Tank Company, N. C. National Guard, will fire a volley over the graves of the dead veterans whose bodies lie in the Memorial Plot. Commanding the firing squad will be Lieutenant Frank Byrd.

North Carolina to take an active interest in the May 27th primary. It is your privilege and duty to vote and to observe the precinct officials' conducting this primary.

"The law places upon the State Board of Elections the duty to compel the observance by election officers in the counties of the requirements of the election laws."

As Chairman of the State Board of Elections, I call upon the three hundred members of the County Boards of Elections and the six thousand precinct election officials in North Carolina to enter upon the discharge of their duties with a determination to observe the letter and spirit of the election laws, to the end that no just complaint can arise from the performance of their duties, and to the further end that the integrity of the primary cannot be questioned. In the final analysis, responsibility for conducting fair and honest elections must rest squarely upon the shoulders of the election officials, because frauds in an election cannot occur to any great extent except through the participation or connivance of election officials."
