Western North Carolina will have a record tourist business this year. New Hotels, Motor Courts, Guest Homes and additional rooms in private homes have been added to the list of present resort accommodations which will help in housing the thousands of guests coming in, particularly during the production of the Cherokee Indian Drama at Cherokee Village, July 1 to September 1.

It was reported also that many resort places had made improvements to secure Grade "A" sanitation ratings in line with tourist association standards.

Directors reporting for local tourist associations listed many active projects now under way, including: publicity folders, signs, motorcades, information booths, recreation projects, cooperation in publicizing and financing the Cherokee Indian Drama, tourist information schools for resort employees and others expected to give information to tourists; sponsoring of lecturers and tours to be directed by Arthur Stupka, Park Naturalist, Great Smoky Mountains National Park; exchange visits between resort operators and promoting the idea of high standard accommodations, courteous service, clean, attractive appearance of grounds and buildings.

Mr. Myers and Mrs. Alley reported on activities of WNCETA and other groups to have a dial telephone system in operation at Cherokee Village by July 1 and progress in getting telephones installed in all resort places as rapidly as possible by local telephone companies serving the western counties, commending the N. C. Utilities Commission for its assistance.

Plans for the annual meeting in June of all members of tourist associations was left to the Executive Committee to select the place and date and work out details of the program for later announcement.

Directors went on record to extend full cooperation to the program of the N. C. Wildlife Commission and President Myers appointed a committee composed of Ed Bumgarner, J. M. Batty and Ed McNish to work with officials of that Commission.

Mrs. Alley reported on office activities and communications, travel club inquiries, visits to local association meetings, and gave the treasurer's report.

The WNCETA Board of Directors expect to work out plans during the next six months to set up a regional office with a secretary in charge to handle the rapidly expanding program of tourist associations in Western North Carolina. Following luncheon at the Towne

Fontana Produces A Big One

Perhaps the most unusual fish story on record for TVA lakes so far is a 19-lb., 41-inch muskallonge, brought out of Twenty-mile Creek at Cheoah Lake, near Fontana Village, by Mrs. Doris Lambdin, guest of the resort. The catch was made on a cupper spoon trout lure, with a 15-lb. test line, 8-lb. test leader, Bamboo casting rod. "The muskallonge has been native to the Little Tennessee River, but there is no record of one having been caught in any of the reservoirs since TVA dams were built," said Dr. R. W. Eschmeyer of Norris, fishery investigator for TVA. "We have checked the age of this fish and find that it is seven years old. The muskallonge grows much faster here than in the North, and this one shows very good growth." Mrs. Lambdin and her husband, Dr. L. D. Lambdin, St. Petersburg, Fla., are visiting Fontana Village for the fourth consecutive season. The Florida fisherman held last season's Fourth-of-July record with a 23-inch, 5 1/2 lb. Rainbow trout, out of Hazel Creek, Fontana Lake.

Anti-Hate Center Urges Tolerance To Avoid War

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A policy of tolerance and compromise is the only way to avoid a catastrophic war with Russia, the head of Harvard's "anti-hate" center contends.

"Cold co-operation should replace the cold war," said Prof. A. Sorokin, director of the Research Center for Creative Altruism. The center was set up a year ago with a donation of $120,000 to study methods of eliminating hatred and making people more unselfish.

One result of his anti-hate studies, Sorokin said, showed that an aggressive approach, between individuals or between nations, was responded to aggressively and a friendly approach received a friendly response in 80 per cent of cases. The Russian-born sociologist said he thought his former countrymen would respond to friendship. A revolutionary himself until he was banished under sentence of death in 1922, Sorokin once was secretary to the Russian prime minister, Alexander Kerensky, and a founder of the All-Russian Peasant Soviet. He was a member of the constitutional assembly that was overthrown by the Bolsheviks.

Love Sustains Life Sorokin said preliminary studies at the anti-hate center suggested that "love-energy" was a definite life-sustaining force and that altruistic persons lived "much longer" than their contemporaries.

"A developed and cultivated love seems to be the best therapy for anxiety, melancholia, unhappiness and psychoneurosis," he said. "Genuine altruists obtain the peace of mind that passeth all understanding and love gives the greatest possible security in this insecure world."

Conversely, the professor said, hatred is a form of disease. Sorokin's proposed rehabilitation program to spread worldwide love would start in the family, where "wise and warm love molds saints, good neighbors and altruists."

"If we can rebuild for all newly-born the harmonious family that is stable and loves its children and members wisely," he said, "most criminality, insanity, unhappiness and hatred is likely to disappear."

Research Needed "Since the very future of humanity depends on its becoming less selfish and more altruistic, this research is the one study of paramount importance," the amiable and bespectacled professor said. "If governments, foundations, and private philanthropists understand the real situation, they should immediately appropriate billions of dollars for this research. They should gather all the best brains and put them to work on this problem."

"We can't expect miracles, but if it's solved, everything is solved and a magnificent future opens before humanity."

"If it's not solved, nothing can prevent further catastrophes. Therefore, control of diseases and other small evils becomes useless. They will be lost in the apocalyptic suicide of mankind killing itself by its own hatred and selfishness."

said the situation "would be relieved as soon as is permissible by law."

In reply to another question, he said the ward would be divided "possibly before the beer-wine election on August 12."

He declared that the Elections Board as a whole deeply appreciated the cooperation of the precinct workers and every other individual who contributed in helping it to carry out a fair election.

"I especially want to commend the Mountaineer," he continued, "for cooperating in the printing of the tickets and the way this job was handled."

"I also want to commend the staff of the Mountaineer and of Radio Station WHCC in giving the voters the returns as they came in."

He said there "may have been" some few irregularities in some places, but "we'll endeavor to weed out any that may have occurred."

"I wish to thank my board and the officials of the individual precincts," he added in conclusion, "for cooperating in the printing this campaign."

Frank M. Ferguson, Jr., a member of the Board, said the county elections officials feel that the "electors of Haywood County were

The duplicate, two feet in height and measured in circumference and weight, was made by an Italian famous bell maker with copper donated for the purpose by U. S. metal and arms.

The bell actually is 94 copper, which is virtually as it can get to the practical purposes.

After being displayed, it turned over to the State for U. S. Savings Bonds become the permanent property of North Carolina.

Mr. Massie said that it would be made to solicit of bonds during the present year.

North Carolina towns, the 85 musicians of the Eusta Band, and the colorfully-dressed Cherokee Indians moved briskly down dry streets lined with hundreds of men, women and children.

Mr. Russ reported that the reception by the local citizens in the towns where they stopped was so large that an extra officer had to be detailed at one or two places to help relieve the congestion.

He reported everyone in the party highly pleased and encouraged with the response shown.

The Eusta band is making the entire trip with the Western North Carolina representatives.

The girls working with the tricity party handing out literature are Linda Welch, Nancy Medford, Mildred Medford, Buzzy Watkins, Allee Marie Burgin, and June Hundley.
