

Outstanding Religious Exhibit At The Lake

Mr. S. Arnold is shown pointing to some of the 400 articles and pictures of the famous exhibit, "The Religious Heritage" which will be the basis of an illustrated lecture for three days at the lake. On June 15 and 16, the exhibits will be displayed from 9 to noon, and from two until five. On Sunday, June 18, from 2 to 5, and an illustrated lecture at eight. Mrs. Clara Nease Arnold is assistant director, and helped gather and present the interesting series of the pilgrimage of Palestine.

Speaking For Animals who cannot speak for themselves.

A week ago I talked to Gregory Queen about how the pound had worked out for the two months of its operation. He said that in two months only four dogs had been rescued from the pound, one by its owner and the other two or three persons who wanted a dog. Up to date, which was June 1st, 200 dogs had been destroyed. Prior to that time when the local Humane Association took over the responsibility for disposing of the unwanted dogs, 41 had been killed; on June 1st, the Humane Association had destroyed 33.

Screen Comic Good With Horses, Too

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—If Louis B. Mayer can do it, Louis F. Costello won't be left behind.

The stouter member of Abbott and Costello has followed the stouter member of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in breeding and racing horses. Costello had six thoroughbreds at Tanforan, eight more at Garden City and 12 at his North Hollywood ranch.

The comic has got so wrapped up in racing that he spends most of his time between scenes of Universal-International's "Abbott and Costello in the Foreign Legion" at the telephone conferring on strategy to bring in a winner.

"At least they won't kid me like they kid Bing Crosby," he said. "My horses win often enough to keep off the radio."

Costello isn't much of a horseman himself. He'd rather look at his nags from the other side of a high, strong fence.

"I was kicked by a horse when I was a kid," he said. "I've been scared of them ever since."

Pets One Mare

The only equine who gets to nuzzle Costello for sugar is Lolly C., a mare named for his mother. For the first time in his life, since his childhood accident, he's been able to approach a horse and pet her.

"She's got a six-week-old filly, Little Lolly," Costello reported, "and say, that's my pet. She's already showing signs of being a racer. I bet she'll be another Busher."

If he gets a good racer, he can match it with one from the stable of his boss, William Goetz, production chief at Universal-International. Goetz's stable was made famous in less than a year by his great colt Your Host.

Costello's elder daughters, Patricia Anne, 13, and Carole Lou, 11, spend all their free time at the

Aerial Gunman

AFTER terrorizing 28 persons on a Los Angeles-to-Oakland plane, John O'Reilly, 26, sits quietly in the Fresno, Calif., county jail. Convinced someone was trying to "flood the plane with gas," O'Reilly held the passengers at gun point for half an hour. He told police members of a "dope ring" were trying to kidnap him. Lewis and Clark Stone Believed Discovered

ASTORIA, Ore. (UP)—Two junior high school boys have found a large sandstone rock with the inscription "Lewis and Clark" which local historians believe were carried by the famed Pacific northwest explorers, Meriwether Lewis and George Rogers Clark.

The moss-covered stone was found near an old Indian trail believed to have been used by the explorers.

Walter Johnson, president of the Clatsop County historical society, said he believed the find authentic. A misspelling of Lewis, "Lewes" in the inscription is confirming evidence, according to Johnson. The party was composed of notoriously poor spellers, Johnson said, a fact that is evident by their journals.

ranch learning how to ride. "They go crazy about it," Costello said, "they absolutely refused at first to go to Europe with us this summer. It took weeks for me to convince them seeing London, Scotland and Paris was more important than a daily riding lesson."

FIRE TRUCK REQUIRES BACK SEAT DRIVER

DANVILLE, Va. (UP)—Sometimes it's nice to have a back seat driver along.

Especially if you're driving a big hook-and-ladder truck.

Danville's apparatus roared from the station in answer to an alarm. On the way to the fire the swinging rear end smashed into a telephone pole and later a parked car.

The driver took a quick look back to see what was the matter with his tillerman. He'd left him behind.

HER MEMORY GOOD

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—Without a halt or bobble, 92-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth J. Foster recited poetry she has memorized over the years, in conducting a vespers service for fellow residents of the Topeka Methodist Home for the Aged.

BREAKS HIS NECK TWICE: SECOND TIME FATAL

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—Frank Lee, 58-year-old sufferer from a broken neck, spent more than six months in a hospital, during which he made plans to visit friends and relatives after he recovered.

When the doctors released him, his neck braced with an iron and plaster cast, his first stop was at a hotel to visit a friend. Halfway up the stairs to the second floor, he lost his balance. He fell backward down the stairs.

Before an ambulance arrived, he was dead. Doctors said the fall broke his neck again.

The Great Horned own attacks crowds while they are sleeping on the roosts in the pines at night. And because of this the crows hunt in flocks for the owls in the day time. They are deadly enemies.
