MARGARET JOHNSTON COUNTY LIBRARIAN

TWENTY YEARS OF LIBRARY SERVICE

Miss Marjorie Beal ended twenty years of service as Director of the North Carolina Library Commission on June 1st.

Twenty years ago less than 38 per cent of the population had access to the few books that did exist.

In 1941 State Aid for Public Libraries became a reality when the General Assembly voted $100,000.

The Haywood County Public Library is one of the many products in this state of the State Aid Fund.

Today library service is available to 95 per cent of North Carolina's population and 92 counties have county-wide service.

In 1943 the Progressive Farmer named Miss Beal as 'The Woman of the Year in Service to Rural North Carolina.'

with the Home Demonstration Club Reading Program in cooperation with the home demonstration agent.

One had only to attend one American Library Association meeting to realize how Miss Beal was recognized nationally.

Miss Beal came to North Carolina after having established herself in the profession through school, college and public library experience in Wisconsin and New York.

I agree with Miss Nell Battle Lewis in speaking of many who have contributed to the library progress when she said, 'But Miss Beal has been the spark plug, and she has been so effective because she has been more interested in doing something for North Carolina than in advertising Miss Marjorie Beal.'

the cemetery office revealed a regiment of three companies Haywood were captured at Berland Gap, and imprisoned at Douglas Prison, with the majority dying during "the epidemic of 1865".

Mr. Smith was not satisfied with the records, so he went to newspaper office and there he read the files of the era, and that the "epidemics of 1865" no specific disease, but once, he presumed it had been typhoid.

"The grounds, with a lake, beautiful landscaping are a work of beauty," Mr. Smith said. "The huge monument stands a knoll, and it is under this monument that the 6,000 Confederate prisoners are buried."

Hurriedly, Mr. Smith copied few of the names from the North Carolina regiment, listed the bronze plaques. The list included: Robert H. Allen, Wm. Allen, J. B. Arrington, Amos, Mars L. Ashe, Sgt. Major Albert Brown, E. A. Brown, Solomon Cook, S. H. Coward, Andrew Dills, Robert P. Ferguson, John Francis, R. M. Galloway, John Hawkins, Arch M. Henson, G. P. Henson, William R. McCracken, Dr. S.
