94,000 American Dead Of World War II In Foreign Cemeteries, Report Says

WASHINGTON - Some 94,000 of America's World War II dead are now buried in permanent memorial cemeteries near now-muted battlegrounds in far corners of the world. "Marshaled in final formation, they will repose in settings of dignity and impressive solemnity beneath crosses and stars, bearing a simple inscription—name, rank, unit, home state and date of death," writes Brig. Gen. Thomas North in the Army Information Digest.

General North, now abroad reviewing and inspecting the cemeteries, adds that for the unidentified, the inscription reads: "Here rests in honored glory a comrade in arms known but to God."

Lt. Col. Charles B. Shaw, in charge of the Battle Monuments commission's Washington office, says the plan is to mark the cemeteries further by stately memorial chapels bearing the names of those who lost their lives in the vicinity. Altogether, there are 14 purely World War II cemeteries where dead who had rested in temporary burial places have been concentrated.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney functions. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

ated. About 40 per cent of the nearly 360,000 Americans who died overseas are buried in these cemeteries. The rest were brought home at the request of relatives for burial in family plots or national cemeteries. Some were buried at sea; others were lost in jungles or mountains and were never recovered.

There are eight World War I cemeteries. "In one instance," says Col. Shaw, "the dead of both wars in interred in the same cemetery . . . Suresnes, near Paris, which is the traditional site for ceremonies in which the French and United States governments unite in honoring their war dead."

American cemeteries in foreign soil are the concern of the commission, an independent government agency set up by Congress in 1923. General Pershing was chairman until his death in 1948, when Gen. George C. Marshall took over. The non-paid members and the secretary are appointed by the president.
