

Average Annual Income In North Carolina Is $930

The average annual income of the United States citizen is $1,410; the average annual income of the North Carolina citizen is only $930. Each year North Carolina's three and one-half million citizens are losing $1,705,424,000 that should be theirs.

The story of how someday this money may be theirs will be told this week by radio stations throughout the State when they continue the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Commission's new radio series, "The Silent Siren". This week's "Silent Siren" program is called, "What Would You Do?" and features the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development.

The Department points to the various ways the people of North Carolina are losing income that could be theirs through the development of the State's many resources. The program bears out the fact that although North Carolina has more protected coastline than any other State, only 2,655 people make their living through fishing. Also, North Carolina's share of the Nation-wide seafood canning industry of $65,000,000 is only $19,000.

Further, the Department of Conservation and Development says that although North Carolina's hog-raising section raises up to six times the national average in hogs, very little meat packing is done in the State. Attention is called to counties in the southeastern part of the State that their climate and soil are ideal for truck farming and that year around canning factories should be providing employment to thousands in that section.

George R. Ross, Director of the Department, invites any community that is interested in the development of the resources within its area to get in touch with the Raleigh Office. He says, "Your State Department of Conservation and Development has many services with their main interest to see that with your help a portion of this vast income you are losing may some day be yours."

The Silent Siren series was written for the North Carolina Resource-Use Education Commission under the direction of Robert F. Schenckan. This program was written by John Clayton and directed by John Young and produced in the Communication Center Studios of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"Would somebody please get the taffy off my hands?"

That was a question heard quite often at the taffy pulling that the girls in Girl Scout Troop No. 4 had last Wednesday night at the home of their leader, Mary Lu Elwood.

The first part of the meeting they elected officers for the coming year.

Lillian Medford was elected to serve as president, succeeding Betty Ann Brown who is now taking her nurses' training at Mercy Hospital in Charlotte.

Nancy Leatherwood was elected secretary-treasurer. Those are the only two offices to be held in the organization.

Joyce (Flash-bulb) Carter brought her camera along and got some lovely shots of the candy pulling.

Kathleen Calhoun seemed to have trouble keeping her candy from going back into the dish. Every time she got it started she would drop it in the dish again.

The next morning the girls took their candy to school for the boys to sample. (The boys seemed to think it was pretty good.)

The famous Tally-Ho Club of Waynesville High School held its first meeting of this year last week and elected officers for the coming year.

Betty Noland, a senior, was elected president.

Ann Rector will assist her as vice-president and Lillian Medford will serve as secretary again this year.

Joyce Carter was elected treasurer and Jane Rogers historian.

Miss Alma Jackson, Sophomore English teacher, will be faculty advisor for the club again this year.

A committee was appointed to select a play and work will begin on it as soon as it is selected.

Last year the club sponsored several dances and parties and proved to be an outstanding club in the school.

The Waynesville Hi Mountaineers got back on the road to victory Friday night when they took their second win of the season from the Elizabethton Hi Cyclones.

After taking a 14-13 defeat from Lenoir last week they defeated the Cyclones by a score of 14-0.

The toughest game is yet to come, though.

On Friday night of this week the Canton Black Bears will journey over to the Waynesville Hi stadium to play what may prove to be the hardest game of the season for the Mountaineers.

The undefeated Black Bears will be out to keep their record clean and the Mountaineers will be out to keep Waynesville leading in the wins of the two rival teams.

The last four games, 1948 and '49, were won by the Mountaineers. In '47 the Black Bears took two wins, but Waynesville won both games in '46... so the records keep going back.

Only once since the rivalry began in 1937 have the two teams split the hill by Waynesville winning one game and Canton winning one. That happened in 1939.

In the Cyclone game Kenneth Styles and Joe Hipp were outstanding in the line and James Moss and "Perk" Fuzate in back field work. These four boys won a week's free pass to the Strand Theatre.

At the half the Waynesville Hi Military Band and the Elizabethton Band performed.

Both bands did march drills and the Waynesville Band made an "E" and a "W" for the cheering fans.

Again the senior music students sponsored a chartered bus for the students to travel on.

The game was quite an outstanding one, with the final score coming in the fourth period.

The first quarter was scoreless, but in the second the Mountaineers drove over their first score with J. C. DeWeese carrying Bill Sutton passed to Carroll Swanger for the extra point.

Early in the third period J. C. drove over for another score and Gerald Ross went through the line for the extra point.

The game was exciting and gave our line a chance to show the fans what it could do.

Football will be in the air even more this week as the Canton-Waynesville game draws closer. That is the game that we all look forward to.

Hats off to S. C. Tutor, manager of the Strand Theatre! Last week Mr. Tutor announced that he would give a week's free pass to the outstanding linemen and backfield Mountaineer in each game.

Mr. Tutor takes an interest in the young people and their activities in Waynesville and all the teen-agers appreciate that interest very much. Each week Mr. Tutor gives six free passes to three readers of the Mountaineer want ads. He said that he would give the whole Mountaineer squad a week's free pass to the Strand if they beat Canton. (Here's hoping that they win that week's free pass.)

New Bern Native To Become New Catholic Pastor

The Rev. Lawrence C. Newman, 37-year-old native of New Bern, N. C., will become pastor of St. John's Catholic Church and superintendent of St. John's School here officially October 7.

He has been transferred here from his post of pastor of St. Mary's of Shelby to succeed the Rev. Ambrose Rohrbacher, who was assigned as pastor of the Infant of Prague Church in Jacksonville, N. C., last August.

Father Newman, during the year he served at Shelby, built Forest City's new Catholic mission church, which was dedicated just a few weeks ago.

Before being assigned to Shelby, he served as pastor of St. Mary's in Goldsboro during World War II. He was ordained a priest ten years ago shortly after he graduated from Mt. St. Mary's Seminary at Emmittsburg, Md.

St. John's Church also announced that the Rev. Francis Tait, acting administrator since Father Rohrbacher's transfer, has been assigned as pastor of St. Joseph's Church of the Hills at Leaksville, N. C.

The announcement said that the Rev. C. F. Hill will serve as assistant to the new pastor and superintendent.

Before he was assigned here earlier, Father Hill was associated with Father Newman in the Goldsboro parish.

Father Newman, who has a deep interest in educational work, had asked for an assignment to a church which was affiliated with a school.

The native Tar Heel during his career has shown a similar interest in young people and in sports.

Fabric-Lined Greatcoat

Corduroy and wool.

By VERA WINSTON

THE fabric-lined greatcoat smartly styled, and with an elegant look is one of the nicest of the new trends. This most attractive design uses taupe corduroy lined with brown woolen of a hairy texture. The wool fabric also forms the cape collar which is generous enough to be draped as a hood. The woolen also edges the capacious pockets. The coat hangs loose and bells out towards the hem. While it has no buttons, it is equipped with a generous lap-over.

S. E. Connatser says... Consider Life Insurance From All Angles?

If you want the maximum protection and the greatest value from your life insurance, there are many things to consider when you buy. The policies you already own... the number in your family... your own business situation. Often it's not so much a question of buying more insurance, but rather a problem of complete co-ordination of your present policies. That's called "Planned Protection" and we'll be glad to give you full details, based on my experience and study.
