Gosman nods his head in understanding, asks a few general questions, then makes suggestions. Some visitors are astonished, he said, that the job is so tedious and complicated. ## "Pick Of The Crop"

Bank

Haywood apples are known far and wide as among the best grown in Eastern America. Our Haywood growers are growing a quality product, and are receiving deserved recognition for their efforts.

This bank is proud of the record which is being established here in Haywood in regards to our apple crop.

Suprisingly enough, about 97 cents of every dollar brought into the county for apples remains here. It takes only about three cents for "outside" supplies for the production of apples. Hence, the apple crop in Haywood is just about 100% "all Haywood".

Haywood apples are going places-and we are proud of the record.

"Some are really interested in art," Gosman said, "And they know what they're talking about. Gosman works on more than just the front of a picture. He takes the whole thing off the wall, removes the frame, and if necessary peels off the cloth backing too. He looks for holes, bugs, blemishes, smudges, everything. His aim is to make the picture look the way it did when the original artist finished it. In some instances Gosman finds the paint so faded he has to add an explorer's leg here and an Indian feather there. He doesn't object to giving sightseers the benefit of his expertknowledge. But sometimes he's asked so many questions he finds it hard to get on with his work.
