(Continued from Page 1) fund. "Haywood County," he revealed, raised an average of 49 cents per person of its population. "The state average was 26 cents per capita." He said, however, that efforts in the January 1951 campaign will have to be greater. "Inflation has hit the National Foundation, like everything else." Where the national goal in the last campaign was $30,000,000, the Foundation hopes to raise $50,000,000 next year. This he interpreted to mean increased efforts on the part of all workers from the national to the county level. Haywood County last year raised $12,960. This was made up of the contributions from the Canton and Waynesville areas. Mr. Huger reporting on the 1950 polio situation, said Haywood County has had 17 cases of polio this year so far. Besides the campaign officials, those at the luncheon included representatives of Haywood County's business, industry, civic clubs, and schools. Following the meeting, Mr. Johnson said he was asking all churches in the Waynesville area to establish their own polio campaign organizations, as they have done in the past. Among those who attended the session were Mrs. Noah Swofford, president of the Canton Woman's Club; Mrs. Robert Phillips, president of the Canton Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. James Wells, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Canton Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. A. B. Robinson of Canton; Miss Edna Summerrow of Waynesville, president of Beta Sigma Phi sorority; Leo Weil of Waynesville; Ralph Prevost of Hazelwood; Hugh Rogers and W. A. Bradley of Waynesville; Lawrence Davis of A. C. Lawrence Leather Company, Hazelwood; and County Schools Superintendent Jack Messer of Crabtree.

Says Klan Whipped Him

MORE ABOUT Tobacco

(Continued from Page 1) At the same time, he advised—and warned—farmers of the importance of proper grading in preparing their tobacco for the markets. Poor grading can cut a farmer's income seriously. Farmers whose tobacco graded wet have lost eight to ten cents per pound in the past, and these losses have ranged up to 20 to 25 cents per pound, he declared. To realize the highest income, he advised, farmers should grade their tobacco and put it in the proper case before delivery to the warehouse. "Most crops I have seen here," he continued, "should be sorted into five or six grades each." With an eye on next week's Tobacco Harvest Festival, he also recommended that farmers, in sorting their crops, save out samples of four hands each of flyings, lugs, and leaf for the tobacco show. He also advised them to set up farm displays of flyings, lugs, and leaf. "A tobacco grower can earn up to $50 just from the show," he reminded Haywood farmers. This would be in prize money awarded to the top exhibits in the event. This may not be as great a year financially as the record year of 1944, but indications are that it will be one of the best. In 1944, Haywood farmers sold 2,138,800 pounds of burley harvested from 1,440 acres. This crop brought them $1,064,110 in cash, when the market prices for the season averaged a record high of 49.8 cents per pound. Actually, however, this season's support price is only two cents per pound under this level. That great year boosted the value of Haywood County's tobacco land to an average $739 per acre. In 1945, market prices cut the income to $985,000 for the 2,499,500 pounds sold. The price dropped to a 39.4 cents per pound average for the season. The total harvest and the yield per acre (1,562 pounds) both topped the 1944 performance, but the total income dropped substantially. In light of these considerations, the size of the 1950 production this year, though lower than last year's 1,812,630 pounds, should work in favor of the producer.

MORE ABOUT Ink Spots

When you spill ink on your garment, never use milk in an attempt to remove it; in most cases, the milk is more difficult to remove than the ink. There are over two hundred different kinds of ink. Each type differs in its composition. Because inks are so complex in their makeup, and the techniques for removal are so varied, the average person cannot successfully remove ink stains.

Beef Auction To Feature Lions Club Meeting

The Waynesville Lions Club will auction off some prime beef Thursday night. It's from a calf owned by Aileen Williams, daughter of Dwight Williams, a member of the club and manager of Graeceland Farms. The girl's animal was shown in the recent annual WNC Beef Show for 4-H and FFA members at Asheville. At the sale that followed the show, the club's community improvement committee bought the 1,020-pound animal for 33 1/2 cents a pound. The beef will be auctioned in individual packages ranging in weight from two to four pounds each. The Lions and their friends will participate in the bidding. The auction will feature the regular weekly dinner meeting of the club at 7 P. M. at Patrick's Cafeteria.

C. PIGEON TO MEET The Center Pigeon Community Development Program will meet at Long's Church at 7:30 P. M. Thursday. Frank M. Davis of Iron Duff, recently elected to the board of county commissioners, will be the principal speaker.
