Changes Uniform

CHARLES F. HYATT this month changed from the Merchant Marine officer's uniform he is wearing in this photo to the Navy blue of an ensign. Shortly after returning from troop transport duty in Japan and Korea, he was ordered to report for Navy service. He immediately was assigned to duty on a Navy craft operating from a base in Japan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hyatt of Waynesville.

merrow, State Highway Patrol Cpl. Pritchard Smith and Hazelwood Police Chief Ossie L. Sutton.

Charles Isley, band director of Waynesville Township High School, is chairman of the band committee for the Festival.

Working with him are Robert A. Campbell, associate band director at Waynesville Township High School; E. N. Troutman, director of the Canton High School band, R. Munch, W. A. Bradley, and W. H. Massie.

The committee in charge of the commercial floats includes Chairman Joe S. Davis, Hallett Ward, Ben Phillips, Ott Ledbetter, and Francis Massie.

In charge of the community floats is the committee of Mrs. C. O. Newell, chairman; Miss Mary Cornwell, Wayne Franklin, C. D. Ketter, and T. A. Cathey.

The vehicles and people in the parade will assemble on Brown Avenue at Waynesville Township High School, facing toward Hazelwood.

Floater and other entries will enter Brown Avenue to the assembly point from Boyd Avenue and side streets—but not from the direction of Hazelwood.

This precaution is taken to prevent the blocking of traffic.

Short addresses by the officials in the parade will be given at the Court House where the procession will end.

ham, one of Alabama's outstanding civic leaders.

A concert at 7 p. m. will launch the night's activities at the Waynesville Armory.

After the address, the tobacco queens of the organized communities will present "The March of Times," illustrating the work of the Community Development Program.

On Thursday night, the community queens will be presented formally at the Tobacco Harvest Festival Ball.

The Tobacco Show at the Court House will follow the parade Friday afternoon, and that night, the Tobacco Queen's court will be chosen.

On Saturday night, the Festival will close with the selection and coronation of the 1950 queen.

The program also will feature the string band and square dance contests.

The queen of the 1949 Festival, Mrs. Jennie Mae Early, of Thickety, will hold a place of honor throughout the Festival.

She will attend tomorrow night's Barnwarming, and reign until the 1950 queen is chosen.

Thirst Will Find a Way, Liquor Dealer Learns

WOODRUFF, S. C.—There are more ways to get a free drink than just hanging around a bar for a handout.

L. C. Strible, manager of a liquor store, found an empty bottle on his side when he opened the place for business. It had been drained through a barred window. Here's how he reconstructed the thief's method:

A wire was inserted through a two-inch hole in the window. The bottle of Scotch was drawn gently toward the window and there relieved of its cork. A rubber hose apparently was used to syphon out the contents.

plans and ice water to wash down the lunches several of them brought to the site.

He told the "superintendents" they could "argue all you want over our plans, but don't pester the workmen."

A COMPLAINT

We have had many splendid parades in Waynesville, and our beautiful American flag is always carried at the head of the procession. But a prominent Waynesville woman asks me to write an item for the Mountaineer. She is wondering at the seeming lack of respect for the flag, saying that very few men even take off their hats when the flag passes by. She asks what is it? Is it indifference, or ignorance?

Annoyed Builder Curbs Sidewalk Kibitzers

WACO, Tex.—Builder Sam Busby, builder, said he got "just plain tired" of sidewalk superintendents bothering workmen on an office building project. So he erected bleacher seats for the spectators at a safe distance from the construction.

In addition, he furnished them with a complete set of building plans and ice water to wash down the lunches several of them brought to the site.

He told the "superintendents" they could "argue all you want over our plans, but don't pester the workmen."
