If there ever was an accomm dating deer in this section of the country, Vernon M. Rhea can well claim the animal

The other morning Rhea felt it was his lucky day for deer hunt-

Leaving town at nine o'clock he drove to Sherwood Forest.

After a few minutes chat with the game wardens, he took off alone through the woods to the top of a high ridge,

He climbed the ridge at a fast pace, and as he got to the top he stopped to rest. He had not been there but a minute when on a distant ridge he saw a deer hopping down the slope like a rabbit.

Rhea took careful aim, and fired a 30-30 bullet at the animal. The bullet shattered one of the deer's hind legs. But that did not stop it mie Price to Pearl C. Price. from bounding down the ridge and Smathers Allison to Bettie through the forest like a streak.

Rhea followed the trail of blood until where the deer crossed the half-frozen creek. The cold water momentarily stopped the blood, and it was sometime before the trail was found again. When it was found. Rhea followed the deer and saw it standing on the edge of the road. He fired another bullet d National Bank of Montgom- into its neck, where it dropped on

Rhea walked about a mile to get W. Covington, to Earl B. his car, and then it was just a matter of picking up the animal and putting it in the car. He found that the animal had run a mile and a half after being hit.

At 11:30 Rhea was back in town, me C. Boring and others, trus- with his 172-pound buck-a buck of the White Oak Community that was very accommodating in that it made its way to the road instead of going back into the rugged mountains
