occupy all of Margaret's time. She is a member of the First Methodist Church of Waynesville, has served as president of the MYF for the past three years and is in the choir. At school she is in the chorus and has been for the past four years. She is a charter member of the Tally-Ho Club and served as the first president of the club. Last year she was assistant business manager on the school paper and this year she is assistant business manager on the school annual. We could just go on and on naming Margaret's numerous activities, but we'll say that to be a DAR Pilgrim you must have leadership, scholarship, character, and contribute to community service. All of these characteristics Margaret has and Waynesville High had better be on the look-out for another prize in the field of DAR Pilgrims!

The students around WTHS are studying, cramming, and scurrying through the halls to meet the last minute deadlines for mid-term exams which start tomorrow. This is the time of year that the students are not seen very much unless you see them at home studying. The teachers give you a rough idea of what to expect, but there's still a lot of reviewing to be done. There's a good side to the question, too. It means that one semester is gone, and that there's only one left. Did you ever try to sleep with seventeen girls in two beds? Well, Shirley Mae Conatser had a slumber party down at her father's motor court Saturday night and found that she had only two beds and the seventeen girls. Julia Ann Calhoun brought her uke along and if you happened to pass by any time during the night you could hear the girls singing with that uke. It seems that Peggy Moody, Ann Plott, and Nancy Francis went to sleep, though, and those girls just don't know what they missed. Helen Garrett says that there was just too much to eat and that she just couldn't stop eating once she started. Everyone of the girls say that

March of Dimes Helps Keep These Iron Lungs Going

Among the patients at the Orthopedic Home, Asheville, is Pat Long, of Canton, a high school senior, in an iron lung, right. His nurse is Miss Pauline Powell, assistant superintendent of the home. Pat is getting special instruction from the teachers at the school, and is looking forward in getting his diploma this spring. In the center lung is Azalee Aiken, of Rosman. Her nurse is Mrs. W. W. Thing, while Mrs. Holmes Bryson, Jr., is the patient in the lung in the extreme back, and her nurse is Mrs. George Diggs. The Home now has 38 patients, with 20 nurses and a staff of 50. Mrs. Retha Fullam, formerly of Haywood, is superintendent. (Staff Photo.)

Dog Keeps Point Though Stream Carries Him Away

For a while, Coach Carleton Weatherby was thinking seriously about selling his ten-year-old hunting dog. Or even giving him away. But first he took him out one Saturday to give him a last chance. Duke took it, and now he's fixed for life. "You couldn't get that dog now for $1,000," Weatherby declared warmly yesterday. The big Levellyn setter went into a point shortly after the two had entered the field. Weatherby flushed the bird and they had a wonderful time and that they'd do it over if they had the chance. Tired, sleepy, and looking every bit of it, the girls go around school saying something about Saturday night, so they must have had fun.

when he was carried into shallow water near a bank. By then, Weatherby was standing waist-deep in the river. Quickly he flushed the birds, fired twice, and one quail dropped with each shot. Only when the gun sounded and the birds started to fall did Duke break his point to charge up the bank and retrieve the bodies. A 14-year-old boy, a student at Waynesville Junior High School had seen the dog's performance in this strange drama. He had become so excited over seeing it through that, when Weatherby reached the opposite shore, he found the boy there, too. The boy's clothes were as dry as though he'd just gotten out of bed. Shivering in the chill wind, the coach asked: "How did you cross that stream without getting wet?" "Well," the boy explained, "I just took off all my clothes, held them above my head and waded across." Weatherby was still thinking about the dog's unusual display of loyalty to his job when he reached

Haywood Sailors End Boot Training

Three sailors from Haywood County recently completed recruit training at the San Diego, Calif., Navy Base. They are Mark E. Hollingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herman, Waynesville, Route 1; Henry B. Osborne, Jr., of Clyde; and Ralph Edward Dill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Dilla of Hazelwood. home with him that evening. "What's the matter?" Mrs. Weatherby asked when she saw her husband's face. He couldn't tell about it just yet. He stood there for a minute in thoughtful silence, and he rubbed the dog's head slowly. "If anything happens to me," he said slowly, "I want to be sure this dog has everything as long as he lives." Careless smokers top the list of causes of forest fires in Canada.

GUARD CAPITOL AS TRUMAN SPEAKS

UNUSUAL SAFETY PRECAUTIONS were taken as soldiers of the U. S. 3rd Infantry stood security guard at the Capitol in Washington while President Truman was delivering his annual State of the Union message. The Chief Executive told the 82nd Congress that "it faces a task as grave as any Congress in the Republic's history." (International Soundphoto)

The Need Was Never More Acute

In the year 1950 Haywood County had 19 active cases of polio... this was not as high as some other parts of the country—but it is enough to arouse our interest in the March of Dimes Campaign.

Haywood has a quota of $15,200 this year.

We have never failed to meet our quota in previous years and we feel certain that the people of the county will again dig deep into their pockets and provide the funds necessary to carry on the courageous campaign against polio.
