Cullowhee Dorm Being Torn Away For New Building

CULLOWHEE—"And the walls came tumbling down . . ." And then no more old Davies Hall, except some memories.

Davies was named for Judge D. D. Davis, who was a resident of this community, and one of the original trustees of the college.

It was built in 1909, and opened doors to boarding students on January 10, 1910. One unique fact connected with Davies is that at one time both men and women students lived there.

Professor John S. Seymour came to WCTC in 1926, and aside from his teaching, had charge of Davies. At this time it was used for an overflow of either girls or boys, as the case might be.

It is rumored that Mr. Seymour has all the crickets named in the building. He can tell each individual cricket by its chirp, "Jumbo" is his pet spider, and he has kept all the silverfish eaten in Davies for many years.

Most of the faculty members who are leaving Davies are moving into the new homes above Miss Benton's. There is one triplex, one duplex, and four new cottages which will house nine families.

Soon Davies will be part of the past of our college, but will serve as a link to bind the present to the past, and in so doing, will add to the greatness of our institution.

Work On Annual At Cullowhee Is Being Pushed

CULLOWHEE—The 1951 Catamount is now in a state of preparation. The work of assembling material—pictures, clubs, and class groups—is being completed and will be ready to blend into the final product.

The annual this year will be somewhat different from those of previous years. The main theme is original; this will be emphasized most in the details of the layout.

All of the pictures have been made or ordered, West said. Operating on a schedule that demands that all material be prepared by February 1 and all pictures be ready by the middle of that month, the staff plans to have the annual ready for distribution to the student body the latter part of May.

One change has been made recently in the Catamount staff. Bobby Terrell has replaced Frazier Long as sports editor. Long has left WCTC to enter the Armed Forces.

Leatherwood Brothers Are Serving In Navy

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Leatherwood of Waynesville are now serving in the U. S. Navy. Donald Ray Leatherwood, who enlisted shortly after his graduation from the Waynesville High School last spring, is receiving his boot training at San Diego, Calif.

Jerry Robert Leatherwood, HM/2, is now stationed at U. S. Naval Medical Supply Center, Norfolk, Virginia. He is a veteran of World War II and before re-entering the service was sales manager for the Rulane Gas Company, Newport News, Va.

Especially wary when awake, the weasel is a sound sleeper. It can often be taken up by the head, feet or tail and swung around for a considerable time before it awakens.

593 Register For Winter Quarter At Cullowhee

CULLOWHEE—The registrar's office has released the figures for registration for the winter quarter. A total of 593 are enrolled in school. There are 118 Seniors, 166 Sophomores and 180 freshmen.

These figures have not been broken down as to number of men and women, students from the different counties, states and foreign countries because of the large number of students dropping out to enter the armed forces.
