gram

Dantoff, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Chamber and Fibre Company, has been appointed to head the pulp branch of the forest program of the Economic Stabilization Administration. He will be from Champion for as long as needed to help organize the program, probably about six months.

Stoff is also vice chairman of the North Carolina State Conservation and Development and chairman of the forestry committee.

Senators Absent

WAYNESVILLE — (AP) — For the first time in 10 years, there are no members in the Connecticut Senate. Another oddity of the current session is that not more than 17 Republican members are in the chamber, a lawyer, although there are several of that party among the 19 Demo-

Guy Caldwell, 44, Found Dead This Morning In Bed

J. Guy Caldwell, 44, died unexpectedly at the home of Haynes Messer on Fire Top early this morning. According to relatives he was in apparent good health upon retiring last night but did not respond when called to breakfast this morning. He was found in bed.

Dr. J. Frank Pate, county coroner, attributed death to a heart attack.

Caldwell, a farmer, was a native of Haywood county, the son of John C. Caldwell and the late Mrs. Margaret Messer Caldwell.

Surviving in addition to the father, are one brother, Francis Caldwell of Waynesville; three sisters, Mrs. Archie Whitener of Hazelwood, Mrs. Frankie Blakely of Bryson City, and Mrs. Dave Brown of Jonathan; two half-sisters, Misses Martha and Susie Caldwell of Buncombe county; and two half-brothers, John Henry and Ned Caldwell of Buncombe county.

Garrett Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements which are incomplete.

Mrs. Henry Foy and her son, Henry Foy, Jr., left Sunday for a vacation in Tampa, Fla.

Washington-Williamson Like Each Other

Malcolm Williamson, in a speaking pose, which has brought him many honors, among them his recent address before the National Republican dinner in Washington. He liked Washington, and from senators, the officials liked Williamson. (Staff Photo).

Malcolm Makes 'Hit' In Washington With Speech

The impression that the city of Washington made on Malcolm Williamson, Jr., was matched by the impression that he made in Washington, judging by the telegram from Senator Owen Brewster to J. E. Brodyhill, Republican National Committeeman from North Carolina.

Following Malcolm's speech at the National Republican Lincoln Day dinner in Washington on February 5, Senator Brewster wired: "Williamson appearance overwhelming. Only major speech in a five-hour program, including twenty Senators, Congressmen and Governors at one-minute intervals. Williamson marvelous and was repeatedly interrupted by applause. Deeply grateful for your contribution." Senator Brewster plans to have the speech inserted in the Congressional Record.

After winning the state-wide declamation contest in Winston-Salem the previous Saturday, Malcolm flew to Washington on Monday at the invitation of Senator Brewster. He spent the afternoon revising his speech, "The Republican Party and the Future," to stress national, rather than state problems; and delivered it that night before a "standing-room-only" audience of 12,000 people. Despite the size of the crowd, and the presence on the platform with Malcolm of many nationally known figures, he claims that he managed to put away his full share of the fried chicken and cake of the famous Republican box supper.

Two of the speakers who made particularly strong impressions on Malcolm were Senators McCarthy and Taft. McCarthy is, according to Malcolm, "a vigorous person with a wonderful voice." Senator Taft, although reserved and "definately not the back-slapping type," struck Malcolm as a man of great sincerity and depth of conviction. "You have the feeling that he'd rather be Taft than President."

The three days following the dinner were devoted to seeing Washington. As the guest of Senator Wherry of Nebraska, Malcolm was able to "go behind the scenes" as no ordinary sightseer could. Besides attending sessions of both the Senate and the House, he visited committee rooms closed to the public. He enjoyed riding the miniature subway between the Senate Office Building and the Capitol and got a "kick" out of stepping into the elevators marked "Senators Only."

In visiting other buildings, Malcolm's chief recollection is the "vast distances from one place to another." Seen from the Capitol, the Lincoln Memorial looks "only a few blocks away." After covering the distance on foot, Malcolm finds it hard to believe that it is "only" about two miles. Among the other points he visited were the National Gallery of Art, the Smithsonian Institute, the Archives Building, the headquarters of the National Geographic Society, and the Library of Congress, where he was much interested in the beauty of the interior mosaic work as in seeing the original of the Declaration of Independence.

Malcolm has not yet decided to what use he will put his oratorical ability, though college is scheduled for next fall.

Awards in fields other than speech leave him a wide field of choice. Speaking contests which he has won include the U. D. C. Declamation Contest in 1946; the D. A. R. Declamation Contest in 1948; and the Lenoir-Rhyne Ex-

6 Crabtree Men Enter Service

MRS. EUGENE WOOD
Mountaineer Reporter

The comings and goings of servicemen are an important feature of Lower Crabtree life these days. Former County Superintendent of Schools, Jack Messer, left on February 9 for active duty with the Navy. Andrew Haney and Nay Kinsland have already entered the armed forces. Clarence Ledford and Ernest Greene will report to Charlotte for induction on February 27. Charlie West, U.S.M.C., will leave today to return to camp after spending a few days leave with his parents at their home in the Hyder Mountain section.

Only 30 per cent of the people of the community attend church, according to the census just made by the various churches. An effort will be made to increase the number of regular worshippers.

The Rev. M. H. Raby, pastor, will deliver the message at the regular Sunday morning service at the Crabtree Baptist church. The service is held at 11 a. m.

Work on the new Methodist church was interrupted by the recent bad weather. It will be resumed as soon as conditions permit.

The church road has been newly covered with gravel.

Community basketball teams split a doubleheader with Saunook at the Hazelwood gym last week. The girls' team won with a score of 30-25. The boys' lost, 17-12.

Miss Pauline Bishop, shining light of the girls' basketball team, is now working in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Kinsland have returned from a visit to Detroit, Michigan.

Hobart Presnell is improving after being very ill at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Glance are new residents of the community.

Arvel Allen is back after a trip to Detroit, Michigan.

Lloyd Ledford has just installed a new hammer mill at his mill. This is the first such mill to be put on the R. E. A. lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Noland are landscaping the lawn in front of their house.

Whether or not spring is really here, the people of the community are ready for its arrival. Everywhere you will see folks burning tobacco beds, plowing, or just plain cleaning up.

Funeral Set Today For W. C. Kirk, 69

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for W. C. Kirk, 69, of Columbia, Tennessee, who died of a heart attack Tuesday morning. Mr. Kirk's daughter, Mrs. W. M. Hardy, is a resident of Waynesville. Other survivors include one son and four daughters, all living in Tennessee.

Farm And Home Field Day Will Begin At 10 Friday

Demonstrations by two specialists from State College will highlight the Farm Home Field Day to be held Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Davis in Iron Duff. Miss Pauline Gordon, Home Management Specialist, will conduct demonstrations on floor and wall finishes, lighting, heating and house furnishings. Demonstrations will be given every hour on the hour between 10 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. In addition, visitors will be able at all hours to inspect the complete furnishings of the house.

The Haywood Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring this field day, with the cooperation of the following firms: Roy Parkman Hardware, Haywood Builders Supply, C. E. Ray's Store, James Furniture Company, and Garrett Furniture, all of Waynesville; C. N. Allen's Store, Hazelwood; Fortune Paint & Hardware Company, Duncan Upholstery Company, and J. C. Penny Company, of Asheville; and the Iron Duff Home Demonstration Club, the Canton Enterprise, Radio station WHCC, and the Waynesville Mountaineer.

Mrs. R. C. Jones of Canton, Ga., is here for a visit to her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fultz and small daughter, Elaine, left yesterday for Chicago where they will visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Fultz, Sr.
