Clever Style Combination

Sweater and skirt. By VERA WINSTON

THE sweater and skirt, that used to be very much on the casual side, has advanced several notches on the fashion scale to become a most attractive and well handled style. Here it is in the very newest version, one that you can see has plenty of appeal. The sweater, which has a hand-made look, is in cherry red, and has a V neck and short puffed sleeves. With it is worn a skirt of fine French flannel in coffee cream brown. It is very slim, with an inverted front pleat that is arrow-stitched on either side. One large pocket, actually slit at the hip, is double stitched. A cherry red leather belt slips through the tabs.

Patricia Bristol Celebrates 12th Birthday

Patricia Jean Bristol celebrated her twelfth birthday with a party given Thursday afternoon in the home of her grandmother Mrs. Arthur Kelly. Various games were played and refreshments were served. The guests were Patsy Clark, Patsy Franklin, Janice Arnold, Sonja Snyder, Maxine Knight, Jewell Campbell, Ann Prevost, Adora Lea Prevost, Hilda Ann Hall, Bobby Balance, Kenneth Hooper, Carroll Davis, Carlton Burrell, Bruce Davis, Dan Snyder, and Bobby Scutelle.

Party Perfect

A DELIGHTFUL party dress, particularly nice for a hostess is fashioned of black pure silk crepe with black lace sleeves and a tricky apron effect that is sewn on above the waist and is actually an apron on the skirt. The set-in belt to which the apron is attached is of crepe and ties in a bow at the back. It is a nice choice because it strikes a clever course between a dressy dress and one that is smartly simple, yet festive.
