

OPS Warns Necessity Of Filing Information

Thousands of business men and women providing services of many types were reminded today by Director Ben E. Douglas of the Office of Price Stabilization for western North Carolina that they are covered by Ceiling Price Regulation No. 34 which requires them to do certain definite and detailed things in order fully to comply.

The regulation, the OPS director made it clear, covers a multitude of services. Regulation 34 includes but in no sense is limited to auctioneers, automobile repairing, servicing, and renting businesses, barber shops, beauty shops, billiard parlors and bowling alleys, bondsmen, cleaners, diaper service operators, exterminating services, garages, jewelry and watch repairers, laundries, linen supply services, office equipment, rental and repairing services, parking lot operators, pawnbrokers, photo finishers, radio repairing and servicing, gasoline service stations, shoe repairing and shoe shining establishments, tire repairing and recapping, television rearing and service.

Sellers of services are defined as those who perform any act or act otherwise than as an employee, for a fee, charge, or consideration. The term "service" or "servicing" includes any privileges sold or granted for such fee, charge, or consideration, and the regulation includes also the rental of any commodity or service.

Under this regulation the provider of any such service must preserve for examination by the OPS all records regarding prices, or pricing methods, and before June 16 must mail to the district OPS office—Charlotte is the western, North Carolina district office—a copy of a statement, complete and detailed, showing the name of the firm, the address, the date prepared and the signature of the owner or authorized agent, together with ceiling price, rates, or pricing methods, and an adequate description of each service.

The ceiling prices for such services, Mr. Douglas pointed out, are the highest prices for which such services were supplied during the base period of December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951. Violation of the provisions of the regulation subjects the violator to criminal penalties, civil enforcement action, and suits for treble damages, Mr. Douglas warned.

The word "census" comes from the Latin "censere" meaning to value or tax.

The United States census of 1790 is credited with being the first on a major scale where a population count was made by government employees.
