

DEATHS

MRS. BONNIE HIPPS

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Canton Central Methodist Church for Mrs. Bonnie Sherrill Hipps, 62, who died Tuesday morning in an Asheville hospital after a brief illness.

The Rev. C. W. Kirby and the Rev. L. E. Mabry officiated and burial was in Bon-A-Venture Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Carroll Powell, Leroy Davis, Frank Holcombe, Walter Sherrill, Hazel Ramsey, and Dill Bryson.

Mrs. Hipps was the widow of C. Guy Hipps, who was a well-known business man of Canton. She was a native of Jackson County, the daughter of the late J. K. and Sara Allison Sherrill, and had resided in Haywood County since her marriage.

Surviving are one son, Guy Hipps, Jr., of Canton; one brother, M. A. Sherrill of Phoenix, Arizona; two sisters, Mrs. P. W. Kincaid of Dillsboro, and Mrs. T. H. Mashburn of Blue Ridge, Ga.

MORE ABOUT Contract

1949, and that this agreement will be a full and complete settlement between Waynesville and Hazelwood for said sewer charges through June 30, 1951.

3. Hazelwood agrees that for the period of four years from date hereof, the Town of Waynesville shall have the right, privilege and easement to continue the use of the lateral sewer lines belonging to Hazelwood, and extending through that section of the Town of Hazelwood located North of Camp Branch to serve that portion of the Town of Waynesville located East of U. S. Highway 19A-23 and North of Camp Branch, provided, that in the event that an increased amount of sewage from said area shall over-load said sewer lines and make it necessary to increase the size of said lateral lines now located in the Town of Hazelwood the cost of replacing and increasing the size of said sewer lines shall be borne fifty-fifty between Waynesville and Hazelwood.

4. Waynesville is hereby given, granted and conveyed the permanent right and easement to extend a sewer line from the end of the jointly owned sewer line near the plant of the Royle-Pilkington Company into that area known as the lower Allen's Creek section, located South of Camp Branch and East of U. S. Highway 19A-23, for the purpose of furnishing sewage facilities for the residents of that area.

5. Waynesville and Hazelwood have agreed that for the period of four years from date hereof, the price of water sold by Waynesville to Hazelwood per month shall be 20 cents per thousand gallons for the first million gallons of water used and 13 cents per thousand gallons for all additional water used.

6. Waynesville and Hazelwood both agree to make every effort to eliminate from lateral sewer lines in each town the flow of surface water or any unusual flowage of water into said sewer lines so that the two towns may avoid claims for damage from property owners upon which said sewer line is located by reason of over-loading and over-flowing the sewer line jointly

Here Tonight

Pat B. Withrow, Jr., noted speaker, traveler, and radio executive, will speak at the First Baptist Church on Thursday, August 2nd, at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Withrow is the founder of Veterans Hospital Programs and Entertainment Service Associates, two organizations sponsored by the Protestant people of the United States, devoted to taking clean, wholesome entertainment into service camps and veterans hospitals, and using outstanding Protestant people in radio, television, stage and screen offering them a chance to use their talent and testimony in and for the church.

Each Sunday morning Mr. Withrow is heard from New York City over the National Broadcasting Company network on the coast to coast program "We Remember".

Mr. Withrow's message will deal with the difficult times today and the opportunities that are at hand. It is a challenge to every listener, and his dramatic speech will lead you from laughter to tears, from sober reflection into a stimulating experience you must not miss. Everyone is invited. Admission is free.

owned by the two towns, and to jointly take all steps that may be necessary to keep said sewer line cleared so as to prevent said over-flowing and damage to said property owners.

MORE ABOUT Farm Tour

were Mrs. Joe Gill and Bill Gill, former Haywood residents!

A movie, "Texas and its Natural Resources," impressed the tour members with the size and varied assets of the state.

Following the dinner the group toured the plant of the Dallas News. The huge presses and the complicated procedure necessary to put out a paper amazed most of the visitors. Floor space of the plant totals five acres.

Tuesday morning started with a tour of the Ford assembly plant in Dallas, and one quipped, "Wish they'd hand out a few souvenirs!"

Visit Denton County

The next stop was of particular interest to those whose youngsters had reported such cordial hospitality on the 4-H trip to Denton. Denton County officials welcomed the party, and the thirty-minute stop seemed far too short to make the acquaintance of the county about which they had heard such glowing reports.

A barbecue lunch at Turner's Hereford ranch introduced the party to Oklahoma. Tuesday night, after stopping at Shawnee for supper, the tour arrived at Stillwater to spend the night.

"I didn't know a school could be this big," was the comment of one woman as she had her first good look at Oklahoma A. and M. College the next morning. There are over fifty major buildings on the campus, which stretches out the size of a small town. Women members of the party visited the Home Economics Department, whose handsome new building is nearly completed. The men had an opportunity to study some of the college's beef cattle experiments. The college has exhibited the Grand Champion steer at the Chicago International four times.

"Look, some trees at last," pointed someone as the buses headed toward Ponca City. "Put on your glasses, grandma," wisecracked her neighbor, "those are oil derricks."

Glimpse of Oil Industry
Ponca City was once a vast cattle range, but today it is the center of a great light oil producing area. Here an oil official gave the out-of-staters a bird's-eye view of the oil industry.

Lunch Wednesday was another barbecue at a Hereford ranch, this time at Ben Culver's 10,000-acre place in the Osage country. This time there was no time to loaf around and look over the ranch, as the group was anxious to get on to the noted Woolaroo Museum in Bartlesville.

The museum was designed to tell a story of our country, with particular emphasis on the Southwest. The rooms are arranged so that the story is told in sequence from the time of the earliest known man in the New World up to the present day. One present-day improvement that was gratefully received by the travelers was the air-conditioning system!

Wild Animals at Woolaroo
Driving up the approach to the building, the visitors were cautioned to stay in the buses. "The wild animals along the drive are dangerous," was the explanation. Among the animals were the sacred cow of India, shaggy red cattle from the Scottish Highlands, our own American elk, the largest deer of the New World, dainty little oriental Sika deer, and the nearly extinct American bison.

Leaving the grounds, the women were raving over the exquisite miniature paintings of U. S. presidents, once owned by the fabulous Diamond Jim Brady, as well as the other paintings and the bronze work. Everybody was impressed by the dinosaur egg from the Gobi Desert. "Which came first, the dinosaur or the egg?" asked one man when he was told that the egg is 95 million years old.

From Woolaroo the party went to the Will Rogers Memorial in Claremore. The museum stands on the site where the great humorist had planned to build his home, and his grave is in the garden in front.

Last night was spent at Joplin, Mo., and this morning was devoted to a tour of a dairy and poultry farm near Springfield, followed by a tour of the Missouri Farmers Association dairy plant, which receives a million pounds of milk a day.

Bats Discuss Night Flying

The secret of the bat's ability to fly in the dark is revealed at last in the latest Moody Institute of Science film, "Dust or Destiny," to be shown at the Morning Star Methodist Church next Monday night at 7:30.

Cattle Club Rates Five Jerseys Here

Of the registered Jerseys owned by the Mountain Experiment Station near here, five were classified recently by the American Jersey Cattle Club. One scored Good, three Good Plus, and the other was rated Very Good. The animals were judged for type, and compared against the breed's score of 100 points for a perfect specimen.

Rated by Prof. M. J. Regan of the University of Georgia, the bulls were all over two years in age, and the females had given birth to at least one calf. Prof. Regan is official classifier for the club which is designed to help breeders of registered Jerseys improve their cattle by permitting them to see which ones come closest to the breed's standard perfection.
