11.7 Miles Of Rural Road Okayed

Several hundred Haywood citizens attended the rural road program meeting here this morning. The courtroom was more than three-fourths filled, as every section of the county was represented to hear a discussion of proposed paving projects.

L. Dale Thrash, highway commissioner, was in charge, and had W. M. Corkill, division engineer, J. T. Knight, assistant engineer, and others, to give details of the Fourteen projects were presented for the early 1952 paving program. These projects represented the recommendations of the county commissioners, and township committeemen, Mr. Thrash explained. The projects totaled 11.7

Various representatives asked for work on dirt roads be done, and for the most part, Mr. Thrash explained that the average road would have to wait, as the workmen were getting around as fast as they could. He cited Pisgah Creek road as the worse he had found in the county, and added: "It is my personal experience that there is not a single mile of road in the entire 10th dis-(See Road Projects—Page 8)
