

Forbidding Sale From Roadside Stands Goes Into Effect On Monday

15 in order to give North Carolina farmers and others with roadside stands an opportunity to operate through the summer and fall sales season and thus to avoid too great a hardship upon them. Meantime, the Commission began giving notice through farm agencies, law enforcement agencies and public information media that enforcement would start October 15.

On and after October 15, it will be illegal for anyone to sell produce or merchandise from vehicles parked on the right-of-way of any primary or secondary road or from stands erected thereon.

Violation of the ordinance will

Haywood Youngsters Get An Early Start

Pilot Farmers Third Meeting Set Thursday

The third meeting of the county's Community Pilot Farmers will be held on Thursday night. Work will be resumed on the farm and home planning sheets which were the subject of State College specialist Moe Williams' talk last week. Only one meeting is planned after this one.

Ears Are Valuable

A hooked sidepiece going behind the ears seems to us a natural way to hold spectacles in place, yet it was centuries after glasses were invented before this method was used, says the Better Vision Institute. Early glasses were held in the hand, or tied around the head with a ribbon, cord, or leather strap.
