

Hominy People Improving Houses

MRS. LLOYD R. JONES
Mountaineer Reporter

Among the improvements in Hominy Community include an addition to the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Smith, an entirely new home for Mr. Clayton Mann, and a new home in process of construction for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hipps. Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Craig are refinishing the inside of their home.

The Executive Committee of the W.S.C.S. of the Plains Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Marie McGaha on November 26 at 7 p.m.

A benefit supper will be held at the Plains Methodist church on Friday, Nov. 30th. Serving will continue from 5:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. The church members in charge are asking all in the community to attend. Prices are announced as $1.00 for adults and one-half that for children.

The community regrets the recent deaths of friends and relatives among our neighbors, and extends its deepest sympathy to all.

Having birthdays in the community during November are Linda Mae Hipps, Weaver Hipps, and Freddy Joy.

Attorney To Address County Medical Society

Sam M. Robinson, Canton attorney, will speak on medical legal problems at a meeting of the Haywood County Medical Society at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the nurses' home at the Haywood County Hospital.

At the next meeting of the society, Dr. Bruce Galloway, orthopedist, associated with the Medical Arts Group at Asheville, will discuss injuries to the hand.

S. E. Connatser Asks: Do You Need Insurance Counsel?

You do - - if your policies haven't been reviewed within the past two years. Rising living costs have made many policies inadequate because they simply do not provide enough protection.

Why not take care of this now? I'll gladly come out to talk with you at your convenience.

the people, instead of trying to give the people what the politicians who happen to be in power think they ought to have. We, in turn, must make a more positive effort to form intelligent opinions and make those opinions felt.

"It is with respect to this basic duty of all citizens that we have come to look upon citizenship in these United States as a privilege that is without obligation.

"We talk continually of our rights, but we say little of duty. The truth is that citizenship is at once a privilege and an obligation. And for every right there is a commensurate duty.

"All of us from time to time ask ourselves the question: 'What can I do to right the wrongs of the past and realize the promise of the future?'

"The answer lies, in part at least, in the promise that the greatest contribution any of us can make to a better and stronger nation is to work unceasingly for a stronger and better community."

Mr. Freeman also stressed the bright future of the South both in industry and agriculture. He pointed out the great strides that the South has made by diversifying its agriculture, and urged equal diversification of industry for further progress.

In the announcement of awards in county home demonstration work, Clyde was named as the winner of an achievement contest sponsored by the First National Bank. The Clyde club was awarded $15 for its year's activities, based on attendance; club participation in county, district and state meetings; membership; demonstrations to unorganized groups, reading certificates, and home demonstration workshops.

McKimmon won second place in this contest; Waynesville Homemakers placed third, and Saunook was fourth.

Waynesville was named as winner of the homemakers attendance contest, with Saunook second, and Center Pigeon third.

Waynesville also took first place and $5 in the reading contest.

Events of the festival Saturday morning were the parade at 10:30 featuring community queens riding in convertibles and including community officers, Santa Claus, and the Waynesville High School senior and junior bands and the Canton High School band.

Following the parade Dr. W. E. Colwell, head of the North Carolina State College agronomy department, presented a "green pastures" pennant to Haywood County, which ranked third in the state in pasture competition.

The main speaker of the morning program was Dr. C. B. Ratchford, North Carolina State College

New Rector Assumes Duties At St. Andrews

Rev. Henry Roger Sherman, Jr. of Franklin, Tenn., has begun his new duties as rector of St. Andrews Episcopal church in Canton. He replaces Rev. R. J. McCloskey, who took a pastorate in Jacksonville, Fla.

Rev. Sherman, a veteran of World War I, has had a number of years experience in the ministry. He is a native of Lawrence, N. Y.

Single Cornstalk Bears Dozen Ears

If you get to see the stalk of corn brought to The Mountaineer office Friday by J. L. Shope of the Howell Mill Rd., you might think Mr. Shope has started turning out corn on the assembly line because this particular stalk has 12 ears of corn on it.

The ears average about 4 inches in length.

Since corn is cheaper by the dozen, it might be a good idea if other farmers could duplicate Mr. Shope's agricultural feat.

farm management specialist, who spoke on "The Role of Farm People in the Defense Program."

Using lantern slides to illustrate his address, Dr. Ratchford compared the economies and the military potential of the United States and Soviet Russia, and pointed out the varied ways in which America's rural areas are altering the national defense program.

Dr. Ratchford was introduced by Ben Jenkins, district farm agent. The program was in charge of Jack Chapman, chairman of the Haywood community development program.

Also introduced were three new officers of the county CDP council: Mrs. Carl Medford of Lake Junaluska, president; Mrs. Henry Garner of Bethel, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Edgar Burnette of Cecil, reporter.

Judges of the tobacco queen contest were Dr. Hoyte Blackwell, president of Mars Hill College; W. Jackson Huneycutt, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, and Morris McGough, director of the Agricultural Development Council at Asheville.

Judges of the home demonstration exhibits were Miss Nell Kennett, western district home agent; Mrs. Mamie Sue Evans, Buncombe County home agent, and Miss Barbara Brown, Macon County assistant home agent.

Co-chairmen in charge of arrangements for the tobacco festival were Mr. Chapman and Mrs. Paul Hyatt, president of the county home demonstration council.

Hale, Grail Win Tobacco Poster Prize

Robert Hale and Bill Grail won first place among members of Miss Evelyn Davis' Waynesville High art classes in the tobacco poster contest Friday. Their poster was entitled "Cultivating Tobacco" and was displayed in the Book Store window.

Second place went to Laura Woody, Thomas Nichols, Allen Davis and Robert Cook for their poster, "Cutting of Tobacco," displayed in Slack's window.

Third place was won by Jesse Alexander and Fayne Conner for their "Going to Market" poster displayed at Massie's furniture store.

Window display winners were: Burgin's, first place; Belk-Hudson, second, and Garrett's furniture store, third.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. W. A. Halliburton, Canton High School art teacher; Aurelia Cathey of Bethel, and Sherrod McCall of Waynesville.

White Oak 4-H Club Members Elect Officers

MRS. GEORGE BORING
Mountaineer Reporter

Two of our White Oak 4-H members have been elected to office in the senior 4-H club at the Fines Creek School. Gene Wilson Messer was made president, and Bobby Hunter is the new song leader.

The regular meeting of the 4-H club which was to be held last Friday night at the Community House, was postponed so that the members could attend the Amateur Show at the Courthouse. They were represented by the "Playmates," Jane Davis and Frances Conard, in a duet.

Brown Messer received a serious injury to his leg while shoeing his horse. He is to remain in bed for at least a week.

Hershel Bradley recently underwent an operation at the Haywood County Hospital and is recovering at his home now.

Mrs. Teague Williams has been staying with her parents on Crabtree. Her mother, Mrs. Hugh Best, received painful injuries and a broken arm in a fall Saturday, November 10th.

Little Gary Teague, son of Mr. and Mrs. France Teague, was taken back to the Orthopedic Hospital in Asheville, Saturday, November 10th, for further treatment.

Luther J. Gentry is enjoying a thirty day leave from the Navy with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gentry.

This past week has been ideal weather for working tobacco and getting it ready for an early market, and the folks of this community have been doing just that.

Rowe Ledford and Tom Rogers have returned from a trip to Detroit, Michigan.

Mrs. Sam Ledford, Mrs. Rowe Ledford, and others, recently visited Pvt. John C. Ledford at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. James Galyon visited with Mr. Galyon's parents in Pineville, for about a week. They then went to Gastonia and found a brother, Jarvis Messer, in the hospital, so they stayed there for three days.

REWARD FOR AN EARLY RISER

SPORTING A JAUNTY CAP, President Truman shakes hands with John David Lawer, 12-year-old Key West youngster. The boy, wishing to meet the Chief Executive, got up bright and early and took up a position he thought Truman might pass on his regular morning walk. Shortly after, he was rewarded as you see in photo above. (International Soundphoto)

Check Artist Doesn't Need To Bounce Them

AP Newsfeatures

PAID FOR being a clever check artist—and the world beats a path to his studio door—is John C. Wenrich, 58, who works in a farm studio near Henrietta, N. Y., a suburb of Rochester. His art work decorates checks used by banks and business firms throughout the world.

Wenrich's pen and ink drawings of imposing buildings and historical sites used to illustrate checks were featured in a trade display at the American Bankers Association convention in Chicago. As a consultant for the Tood Co., one of the nation's leading check printers, Wenrich has furnished backgrounds for more than 1,000 series of checks. In 35 years he has produced 129 countryside scenes, including wheat farming, sheep raising, cattle ranching, and vegetable gardening.

An architectural artist, he is known in the art world as a color renderer. He takes a blueprint of a building and creates a color painting to show what the building will look like when it is erected.
