TODAY'S Menu

Meat Salads Fine for Summer

By ALICE DENHOFF EVEN folks who aren't too happy about salads, tuck away their share of a good, hearty meat salad, we've found. Such a salad makes a nice warm weather main course, especially when served with a hot vegetable, hot muffins or rolls, and plenty of hot coffee or tea. Thrifty too, because such items as frankfurters, luncheon meat or bologna, or any leftover cooked meat, may serve as the basis for a main dish meat salad. Whatever meat is used, the flavor of the salad is heightened if the meat cubes or slices are marinated in French dressing for a short time, and the dish is often improved if the blended ingredients are allowed to stand a couple of hours before serving.

Careful Seasoning Be sure that the salad is carefully seasoned, too. Even though you are successful in throwing in a dash of this and a sprinkle of that when doing the usual salad, critically taste a meat salad in order to add that extra seasoning touch before it's too late. Attractive garnish is important, and especially so when a meat salad is starred at a buffet meal. And a Frankfurter Supper Salad is nice enough for even the fustiest palate. For this one, use 2 c. thinly sliced franks and pour a little sharp French dressing over, letting the franks marinate in it for a half-hour or more. Add 2 c. cooked macaroni, one c. sliced celery, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 3 tsp. finely chopped green pepper, 2 tsp. grated onion, 2 tsp. chopped parsley, 1/2 tsp. celery salt, and salt and pepper to taste. Add enough salad dressing or mayonnaise to moisten. Garnish with salad greens, a colorful center of radish roses and carrot slices on a tiny bed of parsley.

For another hearty salad that also uses frankfurters, drain a No. 2 can kidney beans, and add 1 1/2 c. sliced frankfurters, 1/2 c. chopped sour pickles and 1/2 c. French dressing. Chill. Break a head of lettuce into pieces and place alternate layers of frankfurter-bean mixture, lettuce and sliced green onions in a salad bowl. Pour 1/4 c. French dressing over all. Serve at once. Serves 4.

For a savory meat salad to serve 4, cube 3 c. cooked meat, and mix with 1 1/2 c. sliced celery, 1/2 c. sweet pickle (chopped), 2 tsp. grated onion, 6 tsp. French dressing, and salt and pepper to taste. Chill for an hour, and drain, reserving the dressing for a future salad. Mix with 3/4 c. "novelty" mayonnaise, which is made by mixing 1/2 c. mayonnaise with 2 tsp. chopped olives, 4 tsp. catsup and one very finely chopped hard-cooked egg. Season with salt and pepper to suit.

INGRID'S SON VISITS TWINS

LITTLE ROBERTINO ROSSELLINI is driven from Rome's Salvador Mundi Hospital after getting his first look at his famous twin sisters. Judge Alley Speaks On Democracy

"Liberty, freedom, and democracy are almost synonymous, but yet are different," Judge Felix Alley told the Kiwanis Club Tuesday night.

He explained that "liberty and freedom are the result of the exercise of democracy. You cannot have one without the other." He then traced the history of democracy down through the ages and said the ancient Holy Land operated as a theocracy, in which God was the ruler and men like Moses were appointed to carry out His laws. Greece was the first democracy, the speaker continued, and then ancient Rome borrowed some of the ideas of democracy and established the Republic of Rome. Judge Alley said both these forms of government had good points and when this country was established, a combination of both forms was used to give Thomas Jefferson the ideas for the principles as set forth in

The Declaration of Independence, "Russia is a republic," Judge Alley pointed out. "But that country does not have the liberty and freedom we enjoy. We think our taxes are high, but in Russia the individual is 'loaned' a tract of land to farm. He gives half the proceeds to the government, pays half the balance in taxes, which left only about one-fourth of the harvest for himself."

Judge Alley, who will be 80 years old Saturday, reminisced about some of his 60 years of political campaigns in North Carolina, and said what he enjoyed most of all was that he could shake the hands of so many men, hug so many babies, and kiss so many beautiful women from the eastern shores to the western mountains.

The program was in charge of the Boys and Girls Work Committee. Judge Alley was introduced by Charles Underwood.
