forces. Actual combat situations are reconstructed on the sand tables.

As one Guardsman said: "Victory or defeat in a battle can usually be attributed to a single phase of a battle. By use of the sand tables such things may be easier learned."

Last year the National Guard unit in Waynesville, which has a present strength of 54 enlisted men and six officers, shared in a total payroll of $32,716. Each man receives a full day's pay for each drill he attends. By "full day's pay" it is meant the equivalent pay for a similar rank on active duty. Thus, should a man on active duty receive pay at the rate of $5 per day, a Guardsman of similar rank would receive the same pay for one night's drill (two hours).

Approximately 50 per cent of the men in the Waynesville unit are veterans of World War II. The division was stationed at Fort Jackson during the early days of the war, and later at Camp Blanding, Fla., and Camp Atterbury, Ind. Later they were transferred to a staging area in England in preparation for the invasion of Europe.

The division did participate in the invasion, fighting all the way to the Elba River, where they met the Russians.

In the latter part of April, 1947, the unit was reorganized at Waynesville under the command of Capt. James M. Davis, now a Lieut. Colonel, commanding the Third Battalion, 120th Infantry, NCNG, with headquarters in Kings Mountain.

Since the outbreak of the Korean action, National Guard units from all over the country have contributed approximately 150,000 officers and men, including eight Infantry divisions, more than 80 per cent of the Air National Guard, and numerous supporting units. The units have also contributed more than a billion dollars in equipment and facilities to the regular services.

The Waynesville unit is just one of some 6,000 units located in 2,200 cities and towns throughout the country. The National Guard defense line—on the ground and in the air—runs throughout the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska. More than a quarter of a million men are trained and equipped under direct supervision of the Regular Army and Air Force in 27 Army divisions, 27 air combat wings, 20 regimental combat teams, anti-aircraft groups, engineer, quartermaster, signal corps, medical, military police, and other supporting units.

Captain Samuel A. Carswell, with more than 15 year's service, is company commander of the Waynesville unit. Other officers and their length of service, both on active duty and in a reserve status—includes First Lieut. Robert H. Winchester (13 years), executive officer; First Lieut. Frank C. Byrd (13 years), platoon leader; Second Lieut. James R. Adams (eight years), platoon leader; 2d Lt. Albert C. Jones (5 years) platoon leader; and Warrant Officer Paul M. Mull (12 years), administrative assistant.

The unit has two full-time employees, Warrant Officer Paul M. Mull and Sgt. James R. Robinson. Included in the equipment on

New Officers Are Installed In Club At Banquet Here

The Canton Toastmasters Club held ladies' night, and an installation of new officers, at the Towne House here Friday night.

Robert Patterson succeeded Ernest Messer as president of the organization, with F. E. Shull, retiring deputy governor making the presentation.

The members of the organization gave a routine program, with five prepared speeches by members, and three impromptu talks. For each talk, an evaluation was made, as well as an evaluation for the entire meeting. Some of the talks were serious in nature, while others mixed in a general sprinkling of humor, and others were almost wholly humorous.

The invocation was by Rev. H. R. Sherman, rector of the Canton Episcopal church.

R. M. Ricketson was toastmaster, and presented the five speakers who talked five minutes on a prepared subject. The speakers were: Ernest Messer, W. J. Stone, G. L. Edgerton, J. E. Wilkinson and Roy Blythe. The evaluators for the speakers, in the order named included: Edwin Haynes, R. F. Anton, Bruce Nanne, Mr. McMahan and Lou Kaplan.

The table topics master was C. A. Stone, with H. B. Whitworth as evaluator of those who were called upon for impromptu two-minute speeches. They included Tom McCracken, J. E. Stutts, Ed Bell, and William Stephens. Dr. J. E. Witters was grammarian for the evening, and Zane Hall master evaluator.

Other officers named to serve with Mr. Patterson for the current term included: R. F. Anton, vice-president; Lou Kaplan, secretary-treasurer; William Stephens, sergeant-at-arms; Bruce Nanne, educational chairman, and Ernest Messer, deputy governor.

About sixty people attended the banquet.

Reds Meet Sox At Cooperstown

COOPERTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—The annual pilgrimage of the major leagues to this hallowed spot will take place Monday, July 27. Then the Chicago White Sox will face the Cincinnati Reds in the 12th renewal of the Hall of Fame game at Doubleday Field.

It will mark the second appearance in the Hall of Fame game for both teams. The Reds lost to the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, in the 1941 contest. The White Sox dropped their game to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-5, in 1943.

hand at the Waynesville Army are three medium tanks for training purposes, one gunnery trainer, two two-and-one-half ton trucks, two jeeps, trailers for all four vehicles, and a garage complete with shop equipment.

Other equipment includes individual weapons for all officers and enlisted men (carbines, sub-machine guns, pistols), 30 and 50 calibre machine guns for each tank, complete sets of field equipment for each man, including mountain stoves and cook sets, and the various training aids previously mentioned.

The company maintains an up-to-date alert plan for immediate mobilization in case of an emergency.

That boy in the movie the other night naturally can't join the Guard. Men who wish to qualify for enlistment must be between the ages of 17 and 35. This year the local unit is going all out in effort to recruit to full strength and enlist the support of patriotic citizens throughout this area.

Lions Hear Talk On Importance Of Trucking

"Every family and every person depends on truck transportation for the necessities and luxuries of life," Jeff B. Wilson told Waynesville Lions Club members at a regular meeting of their club held at the Hazelwood High School Thursday night.

Wilson, who is Director of Information and Safety for the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association, Raleigh, pointed out the fact that more than 1800 North Carolina communities depend entirely on trucks to bring them everything they eat, wear and use.

"North Carolina, like the rest of the Nation, has three-fourths of its freight moved by truck," he stated as he spoke on the subject "North Carolina Demands Flexible Door-to-Door Truck Service". "The cargo which truck drivers move is more than just boxes and crates," he continued, "it represents health, happiness and employment."

"Almost everything grown in the soil of the Tar Heel State moves all or part of the way to market by truck. Ninety-nine per cent of all you eat, wear, and use on your farm or in your home is moved by trucks somewhere on its way to you—agricultural commodities depend upon truck transport and farm vehicles in every phase of their marketing and production."

He also outlined in detail the various safety activities conducted by the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association and the American Trucking Associations in Washington, D. C. These activities include: the annual state truck rodeo, the "Driver of the Year" program, "Share the Road" campaign, industry self-policing by road patrol and the N. C. Truck Driver Training School founded by the Association, operated by N. C. State College.

Discussing road taxes paid by trucks, he pointed out that "the trucking industry does not receive or expect a free ride—We pay our share. We pay huge highway user taxes, plus the usual business taxes, although trucks number 17% of 1951 by the trucking industry."

Girl Scouts Start Wild Flower Study

Members of Girl Scout Intermediate Troop 66 of the East Waynesville School are making preparations for a study of wild flowers. The troop is shown with Mrs. J. R. Chambers, assistant leader, and Mrs. T. W. Camlin, leader, holding a chart of native wild flowers. The troop plans to range an exhibit for the spring flower show of the Mountain View Garden Club. Identical Batting Marks

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Veteran Johnny Wrostek and young Mel Clark, who will compete for the regular right-field spot on the Phils, compiled identical batting marks in their first two seasons in organized baseball. Wrostek hit .332 with Kingston, N. C., of the Coastal Plain League in 1937 and again in 1938. Clark batted .347 with Appletton in the Wisconsin State League in 1947. He repeated with the same figure in 1948 for Baton Rouge in the Evangeline Loop.

the vehicles using the highways."

"Figures for 1952 undoubtedly will exceed the more than 800 million dollars paid to the states in highway user taxes and the more than 400 million dollars paid to the Federal Government in excises on gasoline, tires, equipment, etc., in 1951 by the trucking industry."

'The Lone Hand' Stars McCrea In Action Role

The Technicolor story about the adventures of a lone cowboy and his young son who go out West to make a living on a run-down ranch is especially rich in colorful mountain backgrounds. Universal-International filmed the picture 11,000 feet up in the rugged mountains above Durango, Colorado.

The incomparable scenery of "The Lone Hand" is matched by a tender story of a father and his son as well as top portrayals to make it one of the finest outdoor entertainment features of the season.

Joel McCrea as Zachary Hallock, father of an adoring young son, plays one of the most strenuous and engaging roles of his career. McCrea proves again that there are few on the screen today who can top him as a man of the open.

He is aided by one of the moppet performers of the other season, Jimmy Hall, in the engaging role of the son, Sarah Jane Skaggs.

'Thank Heaven! At Last There's A Special Shampoo For Dry Hair!'

for, let's say, oily hair, which requires an entirely different kind of shampoo!

That's why Revlon developed fabulous new Aquamarine Shampoo in 4 custom formulas—and one was created expressly for dry hair. You'll say it's a blessing the very first time you use it. You'll find that your hair, instead of being dry and unruly after a shampoo, is actually beautiful, shiny and instantly manageable.

There are two reasons for this:

1. This shampoo was developed with the special needs of dry hair in mind. It conditions and lubricates the scalp. It actually helps to normalize your hair, not rob it of oils as some detergents do.

2. Thanks to a marvelous new ingredient called Magnitol, your hair actually acquires body during the shampoo and is as manageable immediately after your shampoo, as it would ordinarily be two or three days later!

Let us tell you how Magnitol works. This amazing ingredient actually becomes part of your hair-shaft, during your shampoo. It clings through repeated rinsings, coating each hair with a normal protective substance. No after-rinse, no hair conditioner is needed to supplement this action.

Aquamarine Shampoo actually conditions as it cleans. You need no after-rinse. Your hair will have the gleam and gloss of a hundred brush strokes after your shampoo with Aquamarine Shampoo for dry hair. And it comes in an unbreakable plastic bottle—so safe, such a comfort! Only $1.25.
