Geography Class Visits Weather Records Center

By ROSALEE MASON
The Geography class of Bethel High School went to the Weather Records Center in Asheville, Tuesday, May 5. The group toured the building and learned the functions of each department. Mr. Joyner, supervisor of the machine section, acted as guide for the group. He explained every phase of work and answered numerous questions.

Following the tour, the group had lunch at the S&W and visited WWNC radio station.

Mr. Bonarrigo, who teaches geography at Bethel school, was in charge of the tour.

Of a special interest to the group was the card punch division and the machine division where much of the preparation and summarizing of weather information from points all over the world are processed. Several electronic brain devices were of special interest also. Much of the information assembled at the U. S. Government office is microfilmed and stored for future reference.

The process of microfilming was quite fascinating. Some of this information is printed and sent out to subscribing agencies.

Those who attended this trip were as follows: Ray Singleton, Rosalee Mason, Johnnie Kinsland, Viola Stewart, James Wilson, Ray Johnson, Phillip Gibbs, Donald Singleton, Jack Burnette, Gerald Owens, Carl Chastain, Annie Sue Gibson, Betty Lou Shipman, Cody Blaylock, and Billy Terrell.
