The Scout hut, and furnishing it for general use. Mrs. Rudolph Carswell, pointed out the women carried on the work from planting grass, scrubbing, painting, to furnishing the hut with items donated to the program. Mrs. Denton Browning, and Mrs. Sam Knight gave a report on religious activities, which was carried on by the four churches of the town. One of the goals was to increase church attendance by one-third, and for each church to improve their physical plants. A thorough religious census was staged, and monthly meetings of representatives of all churches participating. The report covered major physical plant improvements, which included: Church of God, interior of church renovated, manse converted into church classrooms, and a new manse purchased; Baptists purchased property for a larger and modern plant; Presbyterians, installed new pews, new lighting, and carpeting, plus refinishing of all uncovered floors. A visitation program in all churches continues. Paul Bryson, head of recreation development, told how the new athletic field was changed from a rocky pasture to a level and ideal playing field. He said that additional planting of grass would put the field in excellent condition. Some 32 trees have been set out around the field, and members of the Parent-Teachers kept the grass, trees and shrubbery watered during the summer drought. Lawrence Leatherwood reporting on recreation activities pointed out the success of the program. He said $800 was spent on the summer program in which 160 boys participated. The full-time paid director was in charge of the play of the Little League, Knee Pants League, and the Midgets. The tournament held on the newly built field drew warm praises from the out-of-town teams and managers. The visitors were also warm in their praise of the manner in which the tournament was staged. "We are proud of the 1953 accomplishments and are getting set to launch out for 1954," Leatherwood reported. Claude N. Allen, chairman of the

Two Kings Mountain youths, charged with the recent theft of two cars in North Carolina and a third in Tennessee, have been arrested here and turned over to Kings Mountain police by Sheriff Fred Campbell. Everett McElroy, deputy sheriff and police officer at Lake Junaluska, arrested the pair at 2 p.m. Saturday on Highway 19 near the lake. "They didn't look right," Mr. McElroy explained. According to a report by Sheriff Campbell, the two boys—identified as Charles Lewis Phillips, and Hillary Talmadge Inman—stole their first car at Kings Mountain and drove it to Spindale where they wrecked it and then stole another car. They drove this car until it became stuck in the mud in the Jonathan Creek section, from where they hitchhiked to Sevierville, Tennessee. After making off with a third vehicle from the Tennessee town, the pair started back this way, continuing until arrested Saturday by Deputy McElroy. After their arrest, Phillips and Inman admitted the thefts. Cpl. Pritchard Smith of the Highway Patrol found the car that the boys had abandoned at Jonathan Creek.

for those people who visit it today to enjoy, as well as the generations to come. As the result of the interest and popularity of the Park, the tourist business adjacent to the Park has grown by leaps and bounds. "Since facilities are so near at hand on every side of the Park we are, under present regulations, trying to keep out concessions," Supt. Hummel said. The Park official stressed the importance of something being done to the highway on the North Carolina side, and larger appropriations for the general expansion and development of the Park. The speaker was introduced by Charles Ray.

street improvement committee, in a humorous report, said his committee had not done a thing, yet every street in Hazelwood was now paved, except two which had been taken in the town limits in recent months. "The credit goes to the mayor and board of aldermen. The committee stood by and let the officials do the work — there was not any need for us to do anything with them working so hard, and accomplishing so much," he remarked. Mr. Stepp said he considered the organizing of the Boosterettes as one of the major accomplishments of any town, and one of the smartest moves of the town during the past year. "This is a progressive town; you have progressive projects, and have proven you have a progressive spirit," he told the large group of civic leaders.

The Power company official reviewed briefly the contest, and said 106 towns had entered the 1953 contest with 600 projects. The contest is divided into three population groups. For 1954 a total of $6,750 will be given in cash prizes. He also said that three Haywood towns were in the contest—Hazelwood, Clyde and Canton.

The first place prize in each of the three main divisions is $1,000, with second place getting $500, and third place $250. There will also be a number of general cash prizes for honorable mention, the contest rules specify. Roy Wright, manager of the Hazelwood office of Carolina Power, and secretary of the Boosters Club, acted as general host to the Boosters and the Boosterettes.
