

SENATOR LENNON REPORTS

AMENDMENT
 Senator Walter F. George of Georgia has offered a substitute amendment. Let me say that I consider him probably the most outstanding member of the Senate. He has been a member for 32 years, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and is now ranking minority member. He is considered one of the most prominent Constitutional lawyers in the country. Senator George's substitute amendment seems short and simple enough. After he introduced his amendment, I asked Senator George to brief me on his thinking. He did, in detail, and there were other Senators who joined me in listening to his explanation.

THE GEORGE SUBSTITUTE

What Senator George said, with the earnestness and sincerity of a scholar of the old school, I shall never forget. He said that amend-

WASHINGTON — I have been pressed with the appeals from letters both for and against Joint Resolution 1, commonly referred to as the Bricker amendment. This is a very important Constitutional matter. Since the Senate last July 15, I have discussed the proposed amendment and read just about everything available on the subject. I am sure many of you have the same thing. I haven't like jumping up on the stump telling you that I know all the answers about a thing so important and complex. I am still studying it. At the time this is written, the debate on the floor of the Senate is hot and furious. As one of my friends who was visiting the gallery during the debate said, "Alton, I don't see how a Philadelphia lawyer could get all the facts for and against a thing like that in five years of study—especially with 1267 pages of fine print in the testimony before the Judiciary Committee."

PVT. LONNIE F. HIGGINS, son of Herbert Higgins of Route 3, Waynesville, has recently completed basic training at the Medical Replacement Training Center, Camp Pickett, Va. He has received eight weeks of basic infantry training and eight weeks of medical training.

ing the Constitution is serious business, and that no surplus of words should be used in a proposed amendment. He feels, and I most certainly agree, that the Constitution should be the supreme law of the land and supreme above everything, including international agreements. His amendment says that treaties or agreements which conflict with the Constitution shall not be legal and that no international agreement other than a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States except by act of Congress. Perhaps by the time you read this, the issue will have been settled and my vote recorded. I favor the George substitute as middle ground. Many of my colleagues fear that to insist on the Bricker amendment all the way would result in a complete defeat of all of the suggestions and the George substitute seems to provide, they say, the safeguards necessary. It would appear that Senator George has come to the forefront to again prove himself the great statesman we all know him to be. I feel confident that is the reason President Eisenhower called him to the White House recently for his views. At the present time, I hope and believe that the majority of the Southern Senators will favor the George substitute.

THIS-AND-THAT
 Senator Hoey has been acclaimed for his leadership in helping to work out in conference the final cotton acreage increase bill. . . . He and I were over at the television studios the other day to make our television film when we ran into the Vice-President who was just completing his program. He was rushing around in order to get back to open the Senate Session. . . . Speaking of television, one of the Congressmen is reported to have made a fluff for sure on television when he got up and proudly stated, "Hello, ladies and gentlemen, I'm glad to come into your bedroom again." Of course, what he meant to say was "living room." . . . I hope those of you who have an opportunity will read Dr. Harris' prayers at the opening of the Senate each day. He is pastor of Foundry Methodist Church here in Washington and is Senate Chaplain. . . . Senator Monroney of Oklahoma wants to convert a room in the Capitol into a prayer room for all members of Congress to use for meditation. I think he is to be highly complimented for this and it should be done. . . .
