Proper Cutting Necessary To Sewing Success

By RUTH CURRENT
State Home Demonstration Agent

SUCCESS IN SEWING: Garments must be cut out properly if your sewing is to be successful. Mary Em Lee, extension specialist in clothing at N. C. State College, offers these suggestions: Follow the pattern guide sheet step-by-step. Compare your measurements with those of the pattern. Place every piece of pattern on true grain of material whether it be true bias or straight. Don't skimp; piece first. Properly pin pattern to fabric. Cut with long, even strokes. Carefully mark notches, darts, or other marks. Match plaids and stripes when cutting and sewing garment.

The sewing guide found in commercial patterns will give excellent directions as to fitting the pieces together. Follow it! Learn the sewing terms such as "ease in" and "straight of goods" and "armseye". Mark all notches, pleats and other details by using tailor tacks, carbon and tracing wheel, tailor's chalk or other means of marking.

Whether you baste all the seams or pin and stitch will be determined by your sewing experience, your fitting problems, your self-confidence. Remember good standards are important. So, use the method that gives you the best results.
