Bookee Group Stage 'Older Carolina' Box Supper

WAYNESVILLE—An "Old Fashioned Supper," reminiscent of the early days of the Hazelwood schoolhouse, will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Hazelwood schoolhouse.

The supper was called "spoonin'," the custom of the Hazelwood schoolhouse.

The Hazelwood Community Club is one of seven committees on the Hazelwood schoolhouse.

Prizes will be given to the best girls and the ugliest boys.

As it was in the days of the Hazelwood schoolhouse, the highlight of the evening will be a bidding for the Hazelwood schoolhouse.

The boxes will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. The Hazelwood schoolhouse is also claim the girl as his prize to share the food.

It was said everyone was invited that visitors to the area, especially invited to participate.

FOREIGN VISITORS to the Ro-Search-Welco headquarters in Waynesville, are delighted to find their own national flags unfurled alongside of the United States flag atop the building. The day the attached photo was taken, affiliates from Denmark, Canada, Switzerland, Honduras, Malaya and France were visiting the Waynesville plant and the flags of their respective nations were flying in their honor.

'World Church' Pictured As Coming Into Being

The company has also instituted an elaborate system to make the foreign representatives of the affiliated factories, who come in a constant stream from all parts of the world, feel at home. Under the supervision of the Foreign Relations Department of the Ro-Search-Welco organization, all department heads are notified in advance of the impending arrival, and are thoroughly informed regarding the companies they represent, their names, personal backgrounds, local conditions and customs of the countries from which they come and any other information that may be pertinent.

When the visitors have arrived, brief announcements are made over the factory public address system so that everyone in the organization will know who the visitors are as they tour the plant, or from which countries foreign representatives are staying on for a course of training.

She said the second assembly of the World Council of Churches, August 15-31 in Evanston, Ill., will be a testing point of the Protestant ecumenical movement and "new evidence that Christians are being drawn into a world-wide fellowship which transcends denominational and national barriers."

Delegates to the Evanston meeting will represent more than 150 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communions.

The WSCS, through the woman's division of the Methodist Board of Missions, supports nearly 600 missionaries in 28 countries, and 288 deaconesses and 1,200 other church workers in the country, Miss Robinson said.

In tracing the work of women missionaries, she said it should be remembered that it was only 75 years ago that the first women were permitted to serve in foreign fields.

"Since then we have sent hundreds of women abroad who have pioneered as missionary teachers, physicians, nurses, social workers and in other professions formerly open to men only."

Miss Robinson, herself a missionary to China for 30 years, said the work of women missionaries has opened the way for native women in nearly all countries to enter the professions.

"Our chief task now," she said, "is to continue to furnish leaders and specialists to train native women to serve among their own people."

Mrs. J. W. Harbison, Shelby, WNC conference president of the WSCS, presided at the opening plenary session Wednesday afternoon in the Lake Junaluska Assembly auditorium. In attendance are nearly 1,000 women, including 500 officers and official delegates. They represent a WNC membership of 43,000 women in 850 local church societies.

Mrs. Harbison will give her annual report Thursday morning. The guest speaker at 7:30 p.m. Thursday will be Mrs. C. A. Meeker of New York, editor of The Methodist Woman. She is to speak on "The Witness of Christian Women."

An Asheville woman, Miss Julia Titus, also will speak Thursday night on "Women Witnessing in Africa". She is principal of Allen High School, a project of Methodist women.

The WSCS meeting will end Friday noon, followed by the annual sessions of the WNC Wesleyan Service Guild through Sunday. Miss Annabel Thompson, Greensboro, is conference secretary of the guild, a WSCS affiliate for employed Methodist women.
