Applications Abandoned On November Deer Hunts

Advance applications and drawings have been abandoned for deer hunts in game management areas of Pisgah National Forest this fall, it has been announced by Pisgah and State Wildlife Resources Commission officials.

Instead, the hunts will be conducted on a first-come, first-served basis, starting November 15 and continuing through November 27.

Hunter quotas will be observed on all areas but officials said they were confident the figures would be high enough to allow all hunters to go into the woods.

The Bent Creek area of Pisgah Game Preserve will be opened to bow and arrow hunters Nov. 8 through 13, it was said.

Wilderness hunts, where hunters are allowed to pack in camping equipment and stay in the woods for three days, also will be offered this year.

Bear hunts will be the same as last year with hunt parties being determined by public drawing. Dates of the hunts or the drawings have not been decided upon but last year the hunts began in mid-October.

Small game hunts also are being planned.

The game management areas are on federal forest land and administered by the state.
