Coat News

By VERA WINSTON

A GOOD travel ticket, a nice choice for town or country wear is this three-quarter length coat fashioned in off-white oatmeal tweed. It is very much of the mode which means that it makes last year's coat look obsolete—and that's just what fashion folk plan for. Straight yet boxy, it has just enough fullness to permit wearing it over a slim suit. Four curved patch pockets add to the line interest and there are four novelty white and gold buttons below the gracefully curved collar.
