Dayton Research Develops Finer Check For Looms

A new kind of check for looms promises to give the textile industry a major check on operating costs.

Dayton Rubber Co. reported today large-scale field tests in more than 100 textile mills over the past year showed its radical new rubberized check straps for looms effecting substantial savings wherever they have been installed. With 600,000 looms in the U. S., such economies can play a vital role in easing some of the pressure of higher materials and labor costs.

The rubberized check strap is said to be the first developed to supplant conventional leather. It is made of special synthetic rubbers and fabric. It checks the force of the shuttle hitting the picker as it flies back and forth across the loom as many as 210 times per minute.

Leather is good for as little as two to three months, and seldom for more than 6,000 loom hours. The new synthetic is said to be far more durable, lasting a minimum of 9,000 to 10,000 loom hours. Some of the new straps have been operating as long as 14 to 16 months and are still going strong, according to company engineers.

Dayton Rubber claims its straps reduce costs on this item along by some 25 to 50 per cent. Other substantial savings are in labor, maintenance and less "down time."

The loom innovation was researched and developed over a period of 8 years.

The WTHS 43-member orchestra will play for the Southern Music Educators Conference in New Orleans Friday at 2:30. This is the only musical group from North Carolina appearing on the program.

The orchestra will perform under the direction of Charles Isley, director of the music department.

The orchestra and six chaperones left via bus and one car to the Crescent City at 6:30 Wednesday morning.

A brief devotional was held in the band building just before departure, with members of the orchestra, their parents and friends attending.

The first night was spent in Tuscaloosa, Ala. While in New Orleans the group will be at the Saxony Motel, and on the return trip home will spend Monday night in Montgomery, Ala. They plan to arrive here about 9:30 p.m. the night of March 29.

The orchestra was invited to perform before the music conference, and a number of civic groups made contributions towards defraying expenses of the transportation, while parents paid for room and board of the group for the week.

Those who are making the trip are: violins—Agnes Jane Roberson, Dale Rogers, Beverly Teague, Gail Kirkpatrick, Sara Abel, Jack Siler, Janet Milner, Betty Limer, Dorothy Swayngin, Sara Reeves, Ann Dulin, Carolyn Gaddis, Betty Jean Balentine, Sara Cobb, Brenda Buckner, Polly Parker, Kay Boyd, Beth Chambers, Terrell Teague.

Voias—Ann Ruff, Phyllis Ruff, Betty Ann Aiken, Nancy Noland, Joe Jack Atkins.

Cellos—Deores Hembree, Betty Hogien, Marie Barrett, Carolyn Davis.

Basses—Sam Lane, Barbara Griffith.

Trumpets—Ben Sloan, Jr., Bruce Clark.

Chaperones, besides Mr. Isley on the trip are: C. J. Mannie, Canton band director, Mrs. Richard Barber, Jr., (advisor), Mrs. Leo Buckner, Jr., Mrs. Hub Ruff, Mrs. Albert Abel (nurse) and Mrs. Walter James. The bus driver is "Red" Rhinehart.

Mr. Isley explained that the orchestra was organized 23 months ago, and that some began lessons on their string instruments in September. One of the purposes of the concert in New Orleans is to demonstrate what can be done with an orchestra by teachers who are not string specialists.
