Excitement seldom reaches the heights at which is now present in the halls of Canton High for the occasion for this excitement comes only once a year. Tomorrow night at seven o'clock the doors of the gymnasium will open for the long anticipated Junior-Senior Prom. Invitations were given out last Friday, but the design on the front gave very little hint as to the theme of the Prom. The cards, with a couple looking over moonlit water on the front of them, announced a banquet at seven with dancing from nine until one. The Juniors have practically dedicated this year to making this event a success, and those who plan to attend can hardly wait for the time to come.

The student body was privileged last week to hear Reverend Wayne McLane who led revival services at First Methodist Church. With him was George Webb who taught us several songs. Mr. McLane spoke on the subject of making the right decisions, and his talk was thoroughly enjoyed by the entire school.

Our thanks go to the Student Council for the movie which was shown in chapel Friday. Several very good movies have been presented this year and all of us feel quite fortunate in having been able to see some of these.

The Canton High audience packed with people Friday night. The Sub held its annual pajama party, and it was a memorable night for all present.

About twenty girls were the minstrel to a pajama party Friday night. The Sub held its annual pajama party, and it was a memorable night for all present.

Several weeks ago, Club sponsored an essay on the subject, "The Privileges of a Citizen." It won first place in this contest. Linda Briggs and Pat G... for second. These three attended a Civitan Club Tuesday and read their essays before members of the club.

The report cards which issued Monday served us that we have only weeks of school before those report cards for the Many of us feel that increased activities and which would take our our books, we must make efforts in order to make report our very best.
