Secretaries Have Fifth Annual Bosses' Night

Miss Mary Ruth Chiles of Gatlinburg, Tennessee, president of the Tennessee State Division of the National Secretaries Association, was the principal speaker at the fifth annual Bosses' Night Dinner held by the Mountaineer Chapter of the NSA Wednesday night at The Towne House.

Miss Chiles was introduced by Miss Mary Medford, secretary of the Waynesville chapter. She spoke on "The Boss and I — A Partnership," pointing to basic factors in establishing a boss-secretary relationship built on ethical teamwork with the mutual objective of operating a successful business. She enumerated characteristics and qualifications of the "ideal secretary" and the "ideal boss."

Miss Mary Sue Crocker, president of the Secretaries, welcomed the bosses and S. M. Robinson gave the response.

Each secretary introduced her boss, at the same time placing a crown on his head indicating her choice for "the boss of the year."

Special guests were Ned Tucker, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Bob Conway of The Waynesville Mountaineer, Mrs. H. P. McCarroll, Enos Boyd, and Miss Rufina Bright, a former member of the Secretaries.
