THE princess line is ruling things nicely, and not only when it comes to youthful fashions. Good corsetry, light, flexible, yet controlling, is prepared to give almost any figure type the right foundation for any line. This coat is cut on the princess line and has an away-from-the-neck collar that is wearable with or without the printed silk scarf. There is a low placed shoulder line and seaming on the bodice that terminates in pines on the side. Flapped pockets are placed slantwise.
