

Adventist Pastors Arriving For Junaluska Convention

Seventh-day Adventist ministers from all parts of North and South Carolina began arriving at Lake Junaluska yesterday to prepare for the Carolina Bible Conference that opens there Sunday night, according to Pete Melsner, pastor of the Hazelwood and Sylva Seventh-day Adventist churches.

Among the guest speakers coming from the denomination's world headquarters in Washington are: D. E. Rebok, former president of the Adventist Theological Seminary, now executive secretary of the General Conference, J. A. Buckwalter, field secretary, Dr. Winton H. Beaven, director of scientific studies for the prevention of alcoholism and assistant secretary of the American Temperance Society.

William A. Fagal, New York director of the denomination's television program "Faith for Today" is scheduled to speak at several of the services. "Faith for Today" is viewed from over 100 outlets from coast to coast every Sunday.

A professional fellowship meeting has just been announced from Charlotte headquarters by C. H. Lauda, conference president, for Saturday afternoon and night. Doctors, nurses, and teachers have been invited to fellowship with the ministers at this special get-together prior to the convention's opening. A travelogue will be given Saturday night.

Several thousand people are expected to arrive Sunday for the opening of the Bible conference Sunday night. Over 3,500 members from the churches throughout the conference are expected to attend this conference-wide gathering May 29 - June 4.

The Ford car was, in turn, struck from the rear by a 1946 Ford, owned by Clara Lou Ross of Jonathan Creek.

Injured were: Mrs. Effie Justice, head and back injury; Betty Ann Ross, cuts and bruises; Clara Lou Ross, cut knee, and Fannie Ethel Reeves, minor cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred during a hard rain. Total damage was estimated at $500. Fox and Miss Ross both were charged with following too closely.

Ghost Town Comeback

RICO, Colo. (AP) — This town, whose gold and silver mining history began in 1869 and faded in the early 1900s, is staging a comeback. Sulphuric acid, an important ingredient in processing uranium ore soon will be produced at the rate of 150 tons a day in a plant being constructed here. Uranium mills within a 100-mile radius of Rico now depend on supplies from Utah. Most of the workers in the town's 400 population help mine iron pyrite from which the sulphuric acid is made.

ing. Services in the afternoon are at 2:30, 4 and 7:30. C. H. Lauda, Charlotte, Carolina Conference president, stated in a recent directive, "that all meetings are open to the public." The Bible Conference closes Saturday night, June 4.

Circus Man

DETROIT (AP) — Brightly painted fly from Clyde Wixom's front porch. His living room is decorated with pictures of elephants and tigers. The walls are lined with circus memorabilia. A handcarved miniature circus is mounted in Wixom's attic and another in his bathroom. "Any real circus man has nuts about a circus," he says. Wixom's grandfather organized his own circus in 1874, but he left the profession in 1907. Clyde didn't learn to be a circus manager until an advance manager for Agenbeck-Wallace Circus in Detroit. Wixom retired from Detroit fireman he retired to his circus-like home.
